Spring in Chicago. Sam Mule Is Bumped—Next? To Discourage Air Men, Sad Desert, no Dates.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, April 22.

FINE SPRING weather here, and no weather is finer than good weather in Chicago.

Men twenty stories in the air hang outside of windows, cleaning them calmly making a living, and indignant, most of them, because they are forced to use safety devices.

THE 1933 exposition, planned to celebrate "one hundred years of science," from 1833 to 1933, is progressing well. It has a fine background, with big Lake Michigan on one side stretching toward the east, huge Chicago and its skyscrapers to the west, and around it monuments to Chicago's energy and good citizenship.

The great Marshall Field Museum is one of the finest buildings in America and one of the world's great museums. Beyond it stands the aquarium, given by John G. Shedd, and at the water's edge the planetarium, given by Max Adler, in which all the movements, sizes and distances of earth, moon, sun, neighbor planets, stars, comets and nebulae are made plain. There is, in America, no more important educational institution than that planetarium, except the public school.

SUCH MEN as Marshall Field and Max Adler should have monuments in Chicago bigger and better than any others except the Lincoln Monument. It would be profitable as well as just, to honor good citizenship and thus encourage it.

TODAY SUPPLIES its usual story of a life snuffed out, such as you read daily here and in New York.

The victim, Sam Mule, alias Morley, would be hurt if he could know what small headlines, how few words are devoted to his killing.

He was an ex-convict and a bootlegger "muscling in" on territory pre-empted by his betters in the great industry.

A BLOND lady and two men rented a room opposite Mule's headquarters. The lady sat at the window in a rocking chair, "scattering cigaret stubs about, to pass the time while she watched."

ONCE MULE came by but his new wife, Lillian, 22-year-old Minnesota girl, was with him. Slugs from sawed-off shotguns scatter, so they let her pass. She had done nothing to make her death desirable. Next day Mule came, alone, on his last earthly journey. Slugs blew off the top of his head.

This little incident will interest the future Froissart, chronicling our doings, chiefly because it now attracts so little attention.

We have one of our biggest industries, bootlegging, organized on a murder basis and take it for granted.

SENATOR CAPPER, of Kansas, tells the House that our nation must "provide controlled inflation of the currency," and if it fails to do so, Congress will print two and a half billion dollars worth of currency, pay the soldiers' bonus bill in full and distribute the money all over the country. That, Senator Capper says, would help everybody. Kansas would get 35,000,000 of the new dollars.

A BILL introduced in the House of Representatives to reduce drastically the pay of officers that fly in both branches of our air service reflects little credit on the judgment or patriotism of the man introducing the bill.

A congressman, sitting at his ease in the safety of a comfortable chair, enjoying his ten-thousand-dollar-a-year salary, cuts a poor figure when he seeks to reduce the pay of flight officers, called upon every day to risk life in the most important branch of the national defense.

ARMY AND NAVY flight officers, and mechanics that accompany them in their flights, risk their lives for pay that is now far too small, since their families may at any moment be left dependent.

They were called upon to experiment with new planes, to carry out, as a matter of routine, dangerous, close-formation flying at terrific speed. The economical Congressman should, just once, try the well-named "hell diving," the plane plunging perpendicularly downward, three hundred miles an hour, practicing the discharge of bombs at enemy craft.

OUR AIRPLANE defense is weak enough as it is, without any mean, stingy, narrow-minded and contemptible economy to discourage the airmen on whom the country relies for the development of our air force now, as it would rely on them for its safety in time of war.

JOSEPH H. APPEL, of New York, wandering over the desert in Africa with his wife, sends word from Biskra that business depression has reached those distant places.

A blight on the date palms has wiped out the natives' chief food supply, and a cash blight, nearer home, has nearly wiped out the tourist crop. Without tourists or dates, North Africa feels like one of the speculators that went in at the top and came out at the bottom.

THE NATIVES in and around Biskra and the many oases, over which human beings have fought for one hundred centuries, have one hope left. They are now praying for a plague of locusts. The insects would strip the palms and make the oases

Mother Doubts Theory That Clarke Killed Self in Mrs. Keith Miller's Home

MIAMI, Fla., April 22.—(AP.)—The Daily News today quoted Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke as saying she no longer accepts without reservation the theory that her son, Haden Clarke, an author, took his own life in the home of Mrs. Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian flier, here yesterday.

The mother, a journalism instructor, at first expressed the belief that her son, who was to have married the Australian flier, shot himself after leaving farewell notes to Mrs. Keith Miller and Capt. W. N. Lancaster.

AFRAID OF FIREARMS

To support her change of mind today, Mrs. Clarke advanced to the News theories that Haden had been afraid of firearms all his life, that a physician who examined him just before death told her there were no powder burns near the bullet wound in the temple, as might have been expected had the weapon been fired at extremely close range, and that an unexplained bruise was found on his shoulder. Mrs. Clarke said:

"When Capt. Lancaster ran out of money during a recent trip to Mexico, he telegraphed back that he was going to pawn his pistol, and Haden told me he hoped fervently that he 'wouldn't bring the damned thing back.'"

Lancaster's pistol was found under Clarke's body after the shooting.

The News said Mrs. Clarke expressed hope that authorities would consider her theories before concluding he committed suicide.

TWO HELD IN JAIL

Meanwhile Mrs. Keith Miller and Capt. Lancaster, her partner in flying adventures of the past five years, remained incommunicado in prison today while officers sought to determine whether Clarke committed suicide or was slain.

A romance between Mrs. Keith Miller and Clarke had developed

Threat to Tunney's Son Laid to Crank

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, has turned over to police a threatening note understood to concern his 5-month-old son, it was disclosed at headquarters.

He received the note, unsigned, at his Park avenue apartment several days ago. Police declined to reveal its contents and were inclined to view it as the work of a crank.

Five-Day Courtship Brings Jacoby Troth

DALLAS, Tex., April 22.—(AP.)—The engagement of Oswald Jacoby, of New York, nationally-known bridge expert, and Miss Mary Zita McHale, of Dallas, was announced here today.

The engagement followed a five-day romance that began on a local tennis court.

Death Bomb Convict Blames Defeat on 'Class Motive'

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 22.—(AP.)—As supporters of Tom Mooney gave notice his account with justice was not yet closed, filing clerks here shut the covers on another chapter of the convicted dynamiter's struggle for freedom, the refusal of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., to grant a pardon.

The Governor of California—the fourth before whom the Mooney case has been brought—declared at the State Capitol yesterday he was convinced Mooney and Warren K. Billings, convicted accomplice, were guilty.

Varied comment greeted the decision, but Mooney and his supporters were confident in their predictions the fight would go on.

CASE NOT CLOSED

Among these was Fremont Older, San Francisco newspaper editor, who said:

"The case is no more settled by Gov. Rolph's action than it was before he made it."

Politicians Facing Call; Receiver Hints 'Unusual Handling' of Finances

Some political "big shots" and lesser lights may have to explain how much they got and what they did with whatever they received in the complicated deals that provided Allegheny county with $1,000,000 worth of voting machines that so far have not been usable, it was learned today.

George W. Manley, of Baltimore, appointed receiver for the bankrupt Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore, which made the machines, would not discuss details of the case when interviewed yesterday other than to say:

"Our investigation so far leads us to believe that some very unusual handling of finances preceded this bankruptcy."

HEARING SET

The next step in the bankruptcy proceedings will be the "examination of the bankrupt" to be held Wednesday morning at the company's plant in Baltimore. Willis E. Myers, referee in bankruptcy, will conduct the hearing. It was decided to hold the hearing at the plant to avoid moving voluminous records and books that will be examined.

M. C. Conick, chief auditor for Main and Company, and Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank spent Wednesday and Thursday in Baltimore laying the groundwork for the county's part in the investigation.

The contract that Allegheny county has with the Poole Company has not yet been completed. This fact gives the county the standing of a creditor in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Neither Frank nor Conick would divulge what they expect to develop by the inquiry.

FINAL PAYMENT

The final payment of $400,000 made to the Poole Company just a few days before it became bankrupt is probably one of the angles

LINDY SERVANTS CLEARED AGAIN

TRENTON, N. J., April 22.—(INS.)—Once again the servants in the babyless Lindbergh home were vindicated today.

Scotland Yard informed police authorities here that a further check-up of Betty Gow, Scotch nursemaid of the kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., and of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wheatley, butler and cook in the Lindbergh household, showed the trio to have had "fine records" in England.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, denied the report that Dr. H. Dodson-Peacock, one of the trio of citizens at Norfolk, Va., negotiating for the return of the child, had visited the Lindbergh estate yesterday.

No mention was made of the mysterious two-day trip from which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh returned at midnight.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 22.—(AP.)—Syracuse police, investigating what they considered a possible "hot tip" in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, announced this afternoon that they had found a child resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., on a farm near Brewerton and were bringing into the city under an open charge a Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott, who said they were grandparents of the child.

Stabilize the Purchasing Power of the Dollar

WORLD ECONOMIC conditions need credit expansion and currency expansion.

Deflation has been general and has been aggravated by added demonetization of silver.

By correcting the monetary cause of continuing depression the government can stimulate the life blood of credit to resume its flow through our economic system.

There is a lot of loose talk about over production.

There is, of course, no actual general over production, while millions lack comforts, conveniences and even necessities.

There is, however, general lack of purchasing power due in part to tremendous contraction of circulating media.

The circulating medium is only in very small part coin. It is only in comparatively small part Government and Federal Reserve notes.

BY FAR THE GREATEST part is the commercial paper of private institutions and responsible private persons, which results in deposit currency and consists of bank deposits subject to check.

When credit is constrained and business diminishes, this private paper largely disappears from circulation in business transactions.

The well-known economic principle is that as the volume of the circulating medium diminishes, the value of the dollar or monetary unit increases, and the more the circulating medium is contracted the dearer the dollar becomes and the more difficult to secure.

All of which means further hardening of credit arteries.

Furthermore, the dearer the dollar, the fewer the dollars the producers get for their product and the workers get for their labor.

Which means not only deterioration of prices of products but of values of stocks on hand and also reduction of employment.

CONSEQUENTLY, IN PERIODS of excessive deflation everybody is poor except creditors, who collect debts in dollars worth much more than their value at the time the debts were incurred.

This is a terrible burden on the borrowing classes, which are also largely the enterprising and business-creating classes.

Thus the valuable producing, employing, and working elements of the community are penalized for the benefit of the unproductive elements.

This burden is further aggravated by high taxes, which take out of the incomes of the producing, employing, and borrowing classes the difficult dollars with which they are seeking to pay their doubled debts.

Consequently, many businesses fail and suspend, and many are foreclosed and taken over by the money-lending classes.

Obviously, an adequate increase in the volume of the circulating medium, including bank deposit currency, would correct most of the difficulties due to deflation, and would tend to revive business.

RESTORING CURRENCY values to what they were is called RE-flation. It is inflation merely to the point of overcoming deflation.

This currency expansion and credit expansion must occur.

Some countries have gone off the gold standard to accomplish this.

The United States would not have to go off the gold standard. It has other means of reflation.

It has not issued the full amount of notes that its reserves warrant.

And the Glass-Steagall law further enlarges the opportunity for legal expansion.

The Glass-Steagall law permits an additional issue of Federal Reserve notes to the amount of three billion five hundred million dollars.

The government should therefore, unless there is adequate expansion of bank credit, issue its own notes and Federal Reserve notes within its proper legal and economic restrictions to take the place of the commercial paper withdrawn from circulation by credit contraction.

IN FACT, A STANDING policy of government and the central banking system should be to expand the circulating medium in hard times and con-

Operator Advises People to Stay Out of Market; Rockefeller to Testify

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP.)—Percy A. Rockefeller told the Senate Banking Committee today he had been "long" on the stock market for the last five or six weeks and had no short interests.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The American public has proven a "sucker" for smart traders on the New York Stock Exchange, Matthew C. Brush, former bull trader who liquidated $15,000,000 in stocks following the black crash of October, 1929, told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today at its short-selling inquiry.

Brush, who smilingly announced he feared getting "shot on his return to New York" bared all the operations of the market. He said it was "pathetic" how people bought stocks without investigation only to see their life savings destroyed.

TURNED 'BEAR'

The trader, who turned bear in April, 1930, in order "to hedge," announced he would not increase his short holdings for the present. He refused to predict the future, declaring there were so many possibilities of developments—either toward the return of prosperity or toward even darker days. He said:

"Anything may happen in the next nine months."

While waiting to take the witness stand, Percy A. Rockefeller said he was praying for a return of prosperity.

He said he hoped to see a return of normal business conditions within a year, but warned that prosperity would not return until the confidence of the people

Senator Blaine of Wisconsin said:

KREUGER DEATH DRAMA BARED IN PARIS

Frantic Appeals for Loans Preceeded Suicide; Gay Side Of Double Life Revealed

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, April 22.—The amazing drama that Ivar Kreuger, multimillionaire Swedish capitalist, crowded into the last 24 hours of his life before committing suicide in his Paris apartment was revealed to International News Service for the first time today.

The Swedish match king, who never traveled with less than $200,000 in bank notes in his pockets and never dined without pretty women and magnums of champagne, shot himself only when last minute appeals to bankers for financial assistance to ward off the collapse of his huge industries had failed.

He left behind him a sordid tale of financial cowardliness and a disappointed bevy of beautiful women.

DOUBLE LIFE

Although generally regarded as a bachelor of ascetic habits, a lonely financial genius interested only in the making of millions, it was a fact that in every city where Kreuger maintained headquarters he had two apartments.

One was plainly but comfortably furnished. This was for business. The other was luxurious in the extreme. This was for feminity.

Mystery surrounds the island off the coast of Sweden that he owned. No servants were kept there and the place was reached only by means of a small ferry-boat.

Rumor says that the island was Kreuger's "love retreat." But there was no favorite whom he installed in solitary loneliness in its picturesque villa. The women who visited him changed as frequently as the events in his own fantastic life, a life so weird and beyond belief that even now many believe he is still alive, a fugitive in Sumatra, and that the body cremated as his was actually a lifelike figure stolen from a wax museum.

PLEAS FOR LOAN

Kreuger's last visit to the United States a few weeks before his death was made for one purpose. He confronted American bankers with an imperative demand for $1,000,000 to forestall disaster.

His plea failed. He returned to Europe aboard the Ile de France, arriving in Paris at 11 o'clock on the day before his death.

A short while later he left for luncheon with Christer Littorin, a business confidante. When the luncheon was over, he began his quest for millions. As the afternoon waned with refusal after refusal, the quest became frantic.

At 6 p. m. he arranged to have a Paris banker call at his apartment. This was the last hope. The banker refused to advance the money and thereby sealed Kreuger's death sentence.

He passed the evening at his apartment and at 10 o'clock the next morning he called in Littorin and a stenographer. He dismissed them after a few minutes and said he would meet them at a hotel in the Place Vendome at 11.

FOUND DEAD

At 10:45 a. m. the chambermaid left the apartment to do an errand. She returned at 10 minutes past noon.

She looked into Kreuger's bedroom and saw the magnate on his bed, fully dressed. She thought he was asleep.

A few moments later Littorin, worried over Kreuger's non-appearance at the hotel, rushed into the apartment. He investigated and found his employer dead with a bullet wound above the heart.

as he helped her prepare her life story for publication.

State Attorney H. Vernon Hawthorne expressed conviction she is innocent, but he continued to hold her in jail as he questioned Lancaster.

In a brief statement today Hawthorne said questioning of Lancaster, who slept in a room with Clarke, disproved several points in the case which had pointed to murder. He continued the investigation in attempting to clean up further points which he said prevented an immediate acceptance of a suicide theory.

VICTIM BRUISED

A development today was the discovery of a bruise on the shoulder of Clarke's body, which will be investigated by the state attorney. He said no one knew how Clarke received the bruise.

Department of Justice agents scanned a quantity of correspondence found at the Keith-Miller home referring to a proposal to smuggle alien Chinese from Mexico into the United States by airplane and boat. The woman flier told Hawthorne last night that Lancaster was under contract with a smuggling company.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, under guard of a deputy, attended funeral services for Clarke last night.

When she and Mrs. Clarke met in the mortuary chapel they embraced, weeping and murmuring mutual consolation.

The letter told Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Walsh their son, Thomas Jr., a University of Illinois graduate, succumbed to starvation and probably tropical fever and was buried by the writer, Harold Foard of West Virginia, in the jungle. They were searching for valuable ore.

SOUGHT DEGREE

On the expedition Walsh had planned to gather data for a doctor's degree. For two years after his graduation from Illinois in 1929 he was stationed at Aroya, Peru, as a chemist for the Cerro De Pasco copper corporation.

Foard's message, mailed from Moncon, Peru, March 12, said three weeks after they left Lima, Peru, their specially built boat was wrecked on the Maranon River. They managed to save only a rifle and a few cartridges from their supplies.

DIES IN JUNGLE

Barely able to sustain life on game they shot and fruits and herbs, they pushed afoot to the region of the Paute River, a vast jungle inhabited only by Indians. There Walsh died January 29. A friendly native helped Foard reach Moncon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh are attempting to communicate with the American consul at Lima to learn whether the body could be brought to Chicago for burial.

SAYS WALL ST. GOUGED PUBLIC

in the country was restored. He said, however, he believed prosperity would be greater than ever when it did return.

BRUSH WARNS PUBLIC

On the witness stand Brush virtually warned the public to stay off the market. He said he wouldn't take a position now either way if he weren't already a bear. He admitted holding on to three large blocks of stocks which he owned outright because he expected them to rise in the future.

And he left a bit of market advice for "suckers." He said he never bought stock without investigating its statistics, the identity of the company's directors and managers. And he never bought into a company without knowing some officer personally. He said the public wouldn't get stuck if it followed this system.

He described short selling, bear raiding, bulling, pegging and all the other manipulations of the markets. He said pools existed, although Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, once denied it. He defended short selling, declaring its prohibition would result in wild swings of prices.

Brush argued it was hard to guess on the day by day trading. He said:

"If a fellow goes into the market at 11 in the morning and the president of the United States gives out a proclamation at 11:30, it is too bad."

Senator Gore (Dem.), of Oklahoma, interposed:

"That depends on the kind of proclamation it is."

Amid laughter, Brush conceded:

"Yes."

NOT STOCK LENDER

Brush testified that his investment trust, the American International Corporation, does not make a practice of lending stock for short selling.

He said he had heard that it was done by some investment trusts, but he had no knowledge of it.

Senator Bulkley (Dem.), of Ohio, asked Brush about "the theory that short selling is holding down the recovery." Brush said:

"I don't think my short account has any more effect on the condition of the country than a rabbit."

Bulkley asserted:

"But you want the price to go down?"

"Yes, but I don't and can't do anything to make the price go down."

"As a patriot, do you think you are justified in being short now?"

"I don't think patriotism has a thing to do with it. I don't think my short position has any relation to prosperity or patriotism. If it is proper for me to buy something when I think it is going up I think it is proper for me to sell when I think it is going down."

'HONOR TRIAL' PROSECUTOR FIGHTS MASSIE INSANITY PLEA

CALLS EXPERTS TO COMBAT DEFENSE

Sessions Resume Today With Two Psychiatrists From Mainland on Stand

By JAMES ADAM
International News Service

HONOLULU, T. H., April 22.—Fighting desperately for a clear cut conviction despite the well laid defense of Clarence Darrow, Prosecutor John C. Kelley today mapped his final battle plans in the Fortescue-Massie "honor slaying" trial, aided by two mainland psychiatrists of renown.

A recess until Saturday was granted by Judge Charles S. Davis to permit Kelley and his two alienists, Dr. Paul Bowers and Dr. Joseph Catton, to study the transcript of testimony.

Darrow has contended that a culmination of harrowing events caused Lieut. Thomas H. Massie to become insane when Joseph Kahahawai purportedly admitted to attacking Mrs. Massie.

DARROW'S DEFENSE

Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two naval enlisted men, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord, are accused of the second-degree murder of Kahahawai, the defense resting its entire case on the contention Lieut. Massie was temporarily deranged at the time of the shooting.

Kelley announced that he would shun all legal evasions, such as seeking a directed verdict of guilty, a mistrial or a directed verdict of manslaughter against Lieut. Massie and concentrate on attempting to establish the sanity of Lieut. Massie and the consequent guilt of all co-defendants.

Dr. Catton and Dr. Bowers arrived from the mainland yesterday. Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, defense alienist who testified to the insanity of the young naval officer, returns to the mainland today, but Dr. Thomas J. Orbison will remain at Darrow's side until the end of the trial.

ATTACKS INSANITY PLEA

Through the rebuttal testimony, Kelley hoped to emphasize two contentions — either that Lieut. Massie faked an attack of insanity, or if he did become insane, it was subsequent to the shooting.

Darrow meanwhile was reported to be studying with keen interest statements attributed to Dr. Catton before he left the mainland. The state's alienist was reported to have made a speech in San Francisco in which he strongly indicated that he believed Lieut. Massie to be insane. How this will fit into the state's case was a matter of conjecture.

Darrow and Kelley both expressed hopes that rebuttal testimony would be concluded tomorrow, allowing the final arguments to be made Monday and Tuesday with the possibility that the polyglot jury may be given the case by Tuesday noon.

The jury has been locked up for 14 days and already has begun to show signs of considerable restlessness.

GIRL TO TESTIFY

Kelley is planning to place only four rebuttal witnesses on the stand—Drs. Catton and Bowers and Dr. Robert Faus, local psychiatrist, together with Miss Maupana Peters.

Miss Peters, a stenographer in the city attorney's office, will testify that Lieut. Massie's actions appeared normal when she saw him immediately after his arrest.

Speculation meanwhile continued rife over the unexpected action of Mrs. Thalia Massie, when climaxing her testimony in behalf of her husband and mother she tore up a document handed her by Kelley and said to be a report of a psychopathic examination made upon her and indicating a rift in the Massie home.

Kelley has protested that the document was admissable as testimony. Applause greeted Mrs. Massie when she tore it to shreds.

SATISFIED WITH CASE

Darrow indicated today he was satisfied with his case. He has frankly admitted that the defendants kidnaped Kahahawai, the alleged leader of the five hoodlums in an attack on Mrs. Massie.

The defense, however, has maintained that the slaying was not done with malice aforethought, but came as a result of Lieut. Massie's greatly perturbed mental condition. The object of the kidnaping, Darrow argued, was to secure a confession that would clear the Massie name and end "vile rumors."

The airing of Dr. Catton to counteract the defense contentions was made over the protests of Kelley, it was learned. It was done by Gov. Lawrence Judd, acting in conjunction with A. G. M. Robertson, dean of the Honolulu bar, and Harry Hewitt, territorial attorney general.

RIFT IN PROSECUTION

Dr. Bowers, the second state alienist, volunteered his services without any arrangement for compensation. Kelley was understood to be strongly opposed to the importation of outside alienists, feeling satisfied with Dr. Bowers and Dr. Faus.

Interest on the streets of Honolulu ran high as the trial came closer to its climax. The majority of opinion seemed to be that the jury would disagree, although an acquittal would be generally expected under the circumstances.

Chief interest in the case has been displayed by the white colony, with the natives and Orientals—the vast majority of the population—appearing outwardly indifferent.

ASK SPEAKEASY AID DEATH QUIZ

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Nassau County authorities depended today upon a radio appeal for clues with which to unravel the mystery of the double slaying of Edward B. Brinker, Jr., and Miss Rose Welk last Wednesday near Mineola, Long Island.

Detectives sought to learn the movements of the couple in the hours preceding the slaying. Believing they may have met their slayers in a speakeasy, the District Attorney has virtually promised immunity to any speakeasy proprietor who will come forward with information.

The police said they were convinced the slaying grew out of Brinker's love affairs. Although he was living with Mrs. Josephine Brinker, his second wife, he was accepted as the suitor of Miss Welk.

A diary kept by Mrs. Brinker, which police found, was generously spiced with interrogation and exclamation marks after entries about Brinker. Two entries read:

"Eddie went out to duck the landlord tonight?"

"Eddie had to see a client tonight?"

HARVARD MOB INVADES GIRLS' COLLEGE

Students on Rampage Stone Police, Storm Lockup and Theater; Gas Bombs Used

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22.—(AP.)—A riot of Harvard undergraduates characterized by police as one of the worst of recent years, was brought to a halt early today after eight students and four Cambridge residents had been arrested and two police officers injured.

Scores of students invaded Radcliffe College, a women's institution, an automobile was overturned, the Brattle Square Station of the Cambridge Police Department was stormed as hundreds of undergraduates attempted to rescue comrades who had been taken into custody and bonfires were built in Harvard Square.

The disorder started in the yard when freshmen in search of the bell clapper stolen from Memorial Hall several days ago shouted the Harvard war cry "Reinhart."

Freshmen were joined by upper classmen as the group started for the offices of the Lampoon, undergraduate monthly, some distance from the yard.

Constantly gaining in strength the crowd rushed to Harvard Square, where attempts were made to enter the University Theater. Turned away from the moving picture house the crowd split and some 400, headed by five automobiles, and bearing red lanterns taken from a nearby construction job made for Radcliffe College.

They serenaded the girls at the college and then made sallies into Briggs and Bernard halls.

HURL TEAR GAS

Returning to Harvard Square the students seized automobiles by their bumpers and hauled them backward. Trolleys of street cars were pulled from the wires and Boston elevated officials rushed extra guards to the square.

When police reserves arrived the crowd numbered about 3,000.

Three tear gas bombs opened a wedge for police and several students were arrested. The crowd followed and as the mob made a rush to enter the station house it was beaten back. The students answered with a shower of stones.

After the melee the crowd returned to Harvard Square where there was a recurrence of the disorders.

Last night's was the second disturbance within a week at Harvard.

TWO GIRLS HURT IN SCHOOL BUS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 22.—Two children were injured seriously and a man less severly hurt as a bus bringing 18 school children from Fairview, Guernsey County, to Pittsburgh upset near here after a collision with another car.

The injured are Betty Arnold, 16, probable broken back; Elizabeth Reed, 16, probable internal injuries; Edward McClain, 40, of St. Clairsville, an occupant of the other car, collar bone broken.

More than 30 children left Oxford School in Fairview early today for a faculty-supervised tour of museums and industrial plants in Pittsburgh.

About two miles from St. Clairsville, one of the buses collided with the car in which McLain and another man were driving to work.

The bus overturned, flying glass and splintered seats inflicting minor cuts on several of the children.

CONNEAUT LAKE HOTEL BURNS

MEADVILLE, Pa., April 22.—(AP.)—The Conneaut Lake Hotel, a three-story frame structure and three other buildings at Conneaut Lake Park were burned early today.

The flames, discovered at 4 a. m., for a time threatened the major portion of the business area but were halted by combined efforts of the Meadville, Conneaut Lake and Conneaut Lake Park fire departments. Damage was estimated by firemen at $25,000.

The hotel, owned by the First National Bank of Conneaut Lake, was unfurnished. The fire was discovered there by Watchman Bert Sutton. He said shortly before he had heard men running across the porch, and he believed they had set it ablaze.

A skating rink owned by the Lamberton National Bank of Franklin, Pa., a roller coaster and another concession at the park were destroyed.

look bare, but locusts are good to eat, an acceptable sort of manna.

BISKRA AND other oases in North Africa are now under the best management they have ever known. France owns them, owns also the fine hotels built for tourists and is building more of them. Everything modern, cooking of course, excellent.

The government of France is not afraid to try anything, from hotels to railroads. And if government railroad workers strike, France has a remedy. The strikers are called to the colors and ordered to operate the road as soldiers.

To refuse would be a court-martial offense, with conviction sure, so the railroad men, changed suddenly to soldiers, go to work. Our railroad presidents would call that "government ownership with a kick in it."

EVERYBODY AGREES that this nation's railroads must be preserved, and if they are to survive the government must do something for them. How about buying them, at a fair price to stockholders, and letting people own and run them?

Three years ago that would have sounded like paternalism, Bolshevism, Socialism and confiscation rolled into one. But with New York Central down to 20, from nearly 300, and other roads shrunken in proportion, a suggestion to buy might not be so unwelcome.

Perhaps government ownership, retaining, of course, and paying well the ablest railroad managers, could succeed in competition with automobiles, trucks, canals and airplanes.

SNOWDEN, HEAD OF STRIKE RIOT TROOPS, DIES

Famed as Leader of Militia In '77 Rail Labor War and Homestead Steel Walkout

Maj. Gen. George R. Snowden, who commanded National Guard troops in the Pennsylvania Railroad riots here in 1877 and during the Homestead Steel strike in 1892, is dead in Philadelphia at 91, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

A native of Franklin, Pa., he enlisted as a private in the Civil War and was mustered out a captain. In the militia he advanced from colonel to head of the state organization.

ONCE FRANKLIN MAYOR

He commanded the old Third Regiment in the riots which culminated in the burning of the Pennsylvania Station here 55 years ago.

Gen. Snowden practiced law, was mayor and later a United States commissioner in Franklin after the Civil War. In 1874 he moved to Philadelphia where he was assistant appraiser of the port under President Cleveland.

Faced with the need of speaking foreign languages he learned French, German, Italian and Spanish at 40. He had lived alone in Philadelphia for many years. He leaves a niece, Mrs. Maurice Crosby, of Bradford, Pa.

LAUDED BY LOGAN

Gen. A. J. Logan, for years prominent in the National Guard, recalled Gen. Snowden as a leader "whose life was wrapped up in the Guard." He said:

"I was a private in the old 18th Regiment and served during the railroad riots here. I did not know Gen. Snowden then, but became acquainted with him later when I was quartermaster under Gen. Wylie during the Homestead disturbance. Gen. Snowden was in charge of all the troops.

"He was a soldier of the old school, a strict disciplinarian, a diligent student of military affairs and brought the Guard to a high state of efficiency."

One of Last Generals Of Civil War Dies

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 22.—(AP)—One of the last Civil War generals, J. Warren Keifer, 96, died at his home here early today of infirmities of advanced age. He was Speaker of the House from 1881 to 1883 and served seven terms in Congress.

The only other known living Civil War general are Adelbert Ames, of Tewksbury (Mass.) and Ormond (Fla.), a friend of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and Gen. John Fred Pierson, of New York and Newport.

Woman Leaves Note, Then Takes Poison

After leaving a note directing visitors to go to the front door and walk in the house, Mrs. Elizabeth Olinger, 42, rear of 232 Bigham street, Duquesne Heights, drank a quantity of poison in an attempt to take her own life, Mt. Washington police said today.

They said she was despondent over lack of money and because her husband had deserted her a month ago.

PINCHOT HERE IN CAMPAIGN WINDUP

Butler, Flinn Accompany Governor; Forester Denies Delaying Road Contracts

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Independent Republican candidate for United States Senator, and Ralph E. Flinn, candidate for State Auditor General, came into Pittsburgh today on the final stretch of the primary election campaign — the Governor flinging denials of charges made against him by political opponents and all exuding optimism over the chances of Butler's and Flinn's nomination.

Conferences and minor meetings today will be climaxed with a mass meeting in Duquesne Garden tonight, when all three will speak.

SPEAK AT MEETING

At a noonday meeting in Independent headquarters Butler declared:

"Last night they were paying $3 for each vote against me in South Philadelphia. That's a lot of money to spend to defeat a fellow like me."

Father James R. Cox, asserting that Pinchot "was a symbol of everything that is best in political life," said of Butler:

"If my grandfather was running for Senator and was backed by the same gang that is behind Senator Davis, I would be against him. If Gen. Butler says he will support certain measures he will do so, if all hell is against him. I am for all the Independent candidates except one—Congressman P. J. Sullivan. I don't see how anyone can support him."

Flinn deprecated what he termed the attempt of the Philadelphia organization to "freeze out" Judge Joseph Stadtfeld for election to Superior Court, on which he now serves by appointment.

DENIES CHARGES

Asked about a statement made by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk before a recent Republican organization meeting, that the counties giving Butler-Flinn majorities would be favored in the state road building program, Pinchot said:

"Mr. Clunk's statement is entirely and absolutely false. I am not building roads for political effect, but for the use of the people, and no road anywhere has been held up for any political reason."

Speaking of his reported assessment of state employes to swell the campaign fund, the Governor said:

"It is a lie out of whole cloth. I may point out that the people making the charge have themselves always made such assessments. If it is so wicked for me when it is not true, what was it for them when it was true?

"I take the same position I always did—that voluntary contributions are welcome but that no one is compelled to give."

All three of the campaigners expressed their optimism in the coming vote.

County Commissioner C. M. Barr is to preside at the Duquesne Garden meeting, which will be broadcast over radio station WJAS. He will be introduced by Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith.

In addition to Pinchot, Butler and Flinn, Judge Stadtfeld and Father Cox are scheduled to speak.

After the meeting Gov. Pinchot will leave for Milford, his home, where he will speak Monday in the interests of his wife's candidacy for Congress and of his state ticket.

A. W. Dunn, chairman of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal Board, yesterday demanded the resignation of L. H. Plans for a strong delegation to represent Pittsburgh district interests at a hearing in Washington May 3 on the proposed $100,000,000 canal were made at the meeting.

SECRET SESSION IN SHARPSBURG

The expected report of an alleged state police investigation in Sharpsburg failed to materialize at last night's special meeting of the Borough Council, members of council said today. They discussed traffic regulations and new equipment the borough will need for the summer.

The fact that the meeting was held in secret gave rise to a rumor that Councilman Leo Horstman would present a report of the findings of state police said to have been detailed to investigate the bombing of Horstman's office two weeks ago.

After the meeting councilmen said vice conditions in the town, which caused a furor at the regular meeting last week, were not discussed nor was reference made to rumors that speakeasies have been reopened.

WANTS OPEN AIR FORUM HERE

Pittsburgh needs a public spot like Hyde Park and Trafalgar Square in London where any one may talk at will free from police disturbance and the old Postoffice property would serve that need very nicely, Dr. Ralph S. Boots, of Pitt believes. He said:

"Everybody should be allowed the right of free speech as guaranteed by the Constitution. It is a safety valve. If you prevent a person from speaking what he thinks, he begins to think that he is right. It is much easier to let him talk."

Dr. Boots, who is chairman of the Civil Liberties Union has been trying for several years now in the hope that the city would provide a place where people may talk at will. Recently he said the organization requested the police bureau to be liberal toward minority groups and give them a place to speak.

FOUR BOYS SEEK ADVENTURE

With spring in the air and Horace Greeley's advice "Go West, young man" ringing in their ears four Pittsburgh district school boys today were believed by their parents to be hitch-hiking toward the Pacific.

The disappearance of the four boys was reported to the Missing Persons Bureau today. Fred O. Bower, 17, of 1337 Lake street, and his chum Thomas Gavin, 17, of 1408 Juniata street, North Side, according to their mothers, Mrs. Elizabeth Bower and Mrs. Nora Gavin, left Wednesday.

The other adventurers are James Graf, 16, and Carl Krototh, 17, both of Coraopolis, who withdrew their school savings account and disappeared yesterday afternoon, according to their parents.

RADIO TRAPS RUNAWAY BOY

Robert Levy, 16, of 2826 Arlington avenue, was to start back to school today, a repentant boy, after his brief attempt at running away from home.

Tired of school and leaving a note which said he was going to find work on a farm, Robert, with $2, his clothes and his Eskimo dog, "Skippy," left home Monday night.

"The Globe Trotter," the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph-WCAE news broadcast announcer, the next day sent a description of him over the air. A short time later a Homestead man called Robert's parents and told them he had seen the boy. Following his directions, the Levys found Robert and convinced him he should return home and finish his schooling.

Hotel Cleaner Falls 20 Stories to Death

DETROIT, April 22.—(INS)—Peter Galito, 53, a window cleaner and father of two children, plunged to his death yesterday from the twentieth story of the Detroit-Leland Hotel, when a safety belt slipped.

Snyder Re-Elected By Lakes Carriers

William P. Snyder, Jr., president of the Shenango Furnace Company, was re-elected a director of the Lakes Carriers Association at the annual meeting in Cleveland yesterday.

Candidate for W. Va. Governor Anti-Dry

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 21.—(AP)—F. Witcher McCullough, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, favors a national referendum on prohibition.

He also believes the Eighteenth Amendment should be replaced by a constitutional provision which would leave that question to the various states and permit federal legislation to protect each state in carrying out the will of the people. McCullough's views upon prohibition were outlined in a letter to the Rev. O. M. Pullen, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mother, Boy Burn To Death in Home

WINDSOR, Ont., April 22.—(AP)—A mother and her 6-year-old son were burned to death yesterday in a fire starting from the explosion of a kerosene can which destroyed their small frame home in a subdivision near Sandwich, west of here.

Mrs. Pearl Craig, 32, and her son, Harold, 6, were enveloped in flames when Mrs. Craig attempted to throw kerosene on a blaze in the kitchen stove. Two other children, John, 10, and Howard, 8, jumped through windows to escape. The husband, Robert Craig, 32, was outside the home when the blaze started.

My Home Is Clean!

HOUSECLEANING is never easy but DETHOL makes it much simpler and your home much cleaner. CLEAN housecleaning means more than washing and cleaning, packing clothes and rearranging furniture. The only pleasure in housecleaning is to look around after you've finished and congratulate yourself, and have others tell you, how nice everything looks.

BUT when you pack your clothes away, no matter how neat they look, you are giving moths an opportunity of destroying your most valuable possessions unless you spray them with DETHOL. Spray DETHOL around your beds and on the mattresses. Maybe you've never seen a bedbug, but this is absolute protection that you never will. Spray DETHOL on all your valuable furniture. Moths cannot make a feast of it then. DETHOL WILL NOT STAIN.

In your bathroom, in the cellar, around all baseboards' cracks or crevices, where all kinds of filthy, disease-laden bugs are in hiding, waiting to spoil all your hard work, a few sprays of DETHOL will absolutely kill everyone of them—and their eggs. Your home will be clean, both where you can see and where you can't see.

DETHOL is absolutely guaranteed. You'll like its clean odor. It must work just as we say or it won't cost you a penny. Buy a can today from your drug, grocery, hardware or department store. It's economical. We suggest you also get an effective DETHOL sprayer. It is so much more powerful and serviceable than any other, yet costs no more. Dethol Mfg. Co., Inc., Baltimore, Md.

"I appreciate the generosity and enterprise of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in adopting and working out a plan of this kind to help me in my work and at the same time help those whom I am trying to help.

"It fits in with my activities because I depend entirely upon voluntary contributions and the offer is more than timely for the reason that the need for funds becomes more urgent every day.

"I want to assure the thousands who are in sympathy with the efforts I am making to alleviate distress that the Sun-Telegraph is making me a liberal proposition—right in line with the friendly co-operation this newspaper has afforded me throughout this unprecedented period of depression.

"I have an idea that this appeal will reach hundreds who are not now having an evening newspaper delivered to their homes and who will welcome this opportunity to bring a good newspaper to their door and at the same time contribute to the needs of hundreds in dire distress through no fault of their own.

"If you subscribe for the Sun-Telegraph during this campaign you will not only help me but you will also help hundreds of others who are fearfully suffering from the depression that has swept the entire country."

BEGINS AT ONCE

The Father Cox Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive begins at once. If you want to contribute to the Father Cox unemployment relief fund here's an opportunity to do so without hurting your pocketbook. On this page there is an order blank. Fill it in right away and send it to the Sun-Telegraph or, if you prefer, you may mail it to Father Cox, Old St. Patrick's Church, 67 Seventeenth street, Pittsburgh.

This campaign is expressly for new subscribers—for persons who are not now having the Sun-Telegraph delivered to their home. If you are already a home delivery subscriber you may still do your bit by having a friend or neighbor sign the Father Cox subscription blank.

BREAD!

THE MEN who fought in Flander's Fields are home again—to a new war! This time a war fraught with even more suffering—more heartache—more human sacrifice. A battle for bread! • • • •

Skilled labor—the backbone of our industrial structure—is facing its darkest hour. Men with mouths to feed . . . families to clothe . . . fires to kindle. Men who have spent years of apprenticeship to become masters of their trades—steel workers, book binders, garment makers, trainmen, plumbers, carpenters. • • • • •

The exhibition that has won the plaudits of all America closes tomorrow at Gimbels. It will be your last chance to visit scores of displays showing men and machines at work, making those products which Pittsburgh contributes to the world. • • • • •

Prince of Wales on WCAE Tomorrow; Mitzi Green KDKA Star Tonight

The Prince of Wales will be heard tomorrow morning through WCAE.

Prince of Wales

The Prince and other notables will speak during a re-broadcast from England at 3:15 a. m. of the ceremonies attending the opening of the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon. Following the unfurling of the royal ensign, the Prince will open the door with a golden key, delivering his address from the balcony of the theater near Stratford Church, where William Shakespeare is buried.

A program consisting of excerpts from Shakespeare's works and music inspired by him will be heard through WCAE tomorrow afternoon at 3. Beginning at 2:30 ceremonies dedicating the Folger Shakespease Library at Washington, will be heard through WJAS.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Gen. Smedley D. Butler, and Judge Joseph Stadtfeld are heard in a broadcast on WJAS at 9 tonight from Duquesne Garden. The program also is carried on stations WCAU in Philadelphia, and WHP in Harrisburg. Other speakers include Ralph H. Smith, chairman of the Allegheny County Independent campaign committee, and Ralph E. Flinn.

Program Pointers

Mitzi Green, 10-year-old veteran of the stage, screen and radio, appears as guest artist with Leonard Joy's Orchestra on KDKA tonight at 8. She gives her impressions of Sophie Tucker and Maurice Chevalier. Mitzi, who comes from a theatrical family, made her debut at the age of 6, and since then has been starred in "Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," "Skippy" and "Girl Crazy."

Mitzi Green

The Carr Sisters, harmony duo, and the Aviation Thriller, regular KQV Friday night features, are replaced tonight at 8:30 by a broadcast from the Food Show featuring Clark's Pennsylvanians and vocalists.

Leo Reisman presents an all-orchestral popular program with an augmented band on WCAE at 9:30.

A microphone test for which the good folks of Friendship Town have been preparing for days is broadcast over KDKA at 9.

Algo Sand, author, explorer and adventurer, is interviewed by Allie Lowe Miles on WJAS at 8.

An all-request program, featuring Jessica Dragonette and the Cavaliers' Quartet, marks the 300th concert sponsored by that fuel company on WCAE at 8.

The National Oratorio Society presents the works of two German composers, Brahms' "Song of Destiny" and Brush's "Fair Ellen," with Reinald Werrenrath conducting, on WCAE at 10:30.

Long's Sports Talk On WCAE Tonight

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, gives an authoritative talk on sports activities of both local and nation-wide importance on WCAE tonight at 7.

A delightful children's program is presented by talented Pittsburgh youngsters during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast on WCAE at 4:45.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m., with the latest news flashes direct from the editorial rooms of the Sun-Telegraph.

Artists heard on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air tonight at 11 are Marie McCune, vocalist, and Sonny Joy, ukulele and comic song entertainer, featured with David Levin's orchestra and Herb McGee, master of ceremonies.

The Sun-Telegraph Boys' Club meets via the ether waves when an extraordinary program of interest to boys of all ages is presented from WCAE tomorrow morning at 11:30.

Fan Fare

Nan Dorland is the young "Lane Reporter," who takes her listeners into the homes of prominent motion picture stars on WJAS every Friday morning . . . With the change to daylight-saving time, Attorney Ella Graubart's talks on divorce and laws affecting women are scheduled at 11:45 a. m. on KDKA beginning Monday . . . Incidentally, Miss Graubart celebrates her third anniversary before the microphone this month.

Miss Dorland

Figures show that for every 500 persons given auditions by NBC and CBS, only one person goes on the air, and if one really outstanding radio entertainer is heard out of 10,000 applicants, it's considered a good season.

Ripley returns to the air May 4. He recently completed a tour of the Far East and the South Seas.

B. A. Rolfe has punctured the adage that middle-age must bow to youth . . . At '52 he's going stronger than ever with his new NBC orchestra . . . Radio, Rolfe says, is leaning more and more toward high-class vaudeville. . . Bing Crosby broadcasts on a new schedule while on his vaudeville tour, until May 8 when he goes to Hollywood to make a picture and discontinues his radio work . . . Bing is heard in the early evening on Mondays and Wednesdays, and late in the evening on Tuesdays for the present.

ACCURATE TUBES

CAN GIVE TRUE TONE

If your radio sounds harsh, the chances are your tubes have lost their accuracy. It can't be lost with Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes . . . they have the strength to protect it. Four sturdy pillars anchor their elements in place. All other tubes use only two supports and are easily damaged by the jolts and vibration of handling and usage.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. To hear the difference, compare them tube for tube with others. But to hear your radio at its best, install 4-pillar tubes throughout!

WARNING! The market is flooded with old-type, slow-heater tubes. Eveready Raytheons are quick-heaters. Modern tubes should heat up in 10 seconds or less.

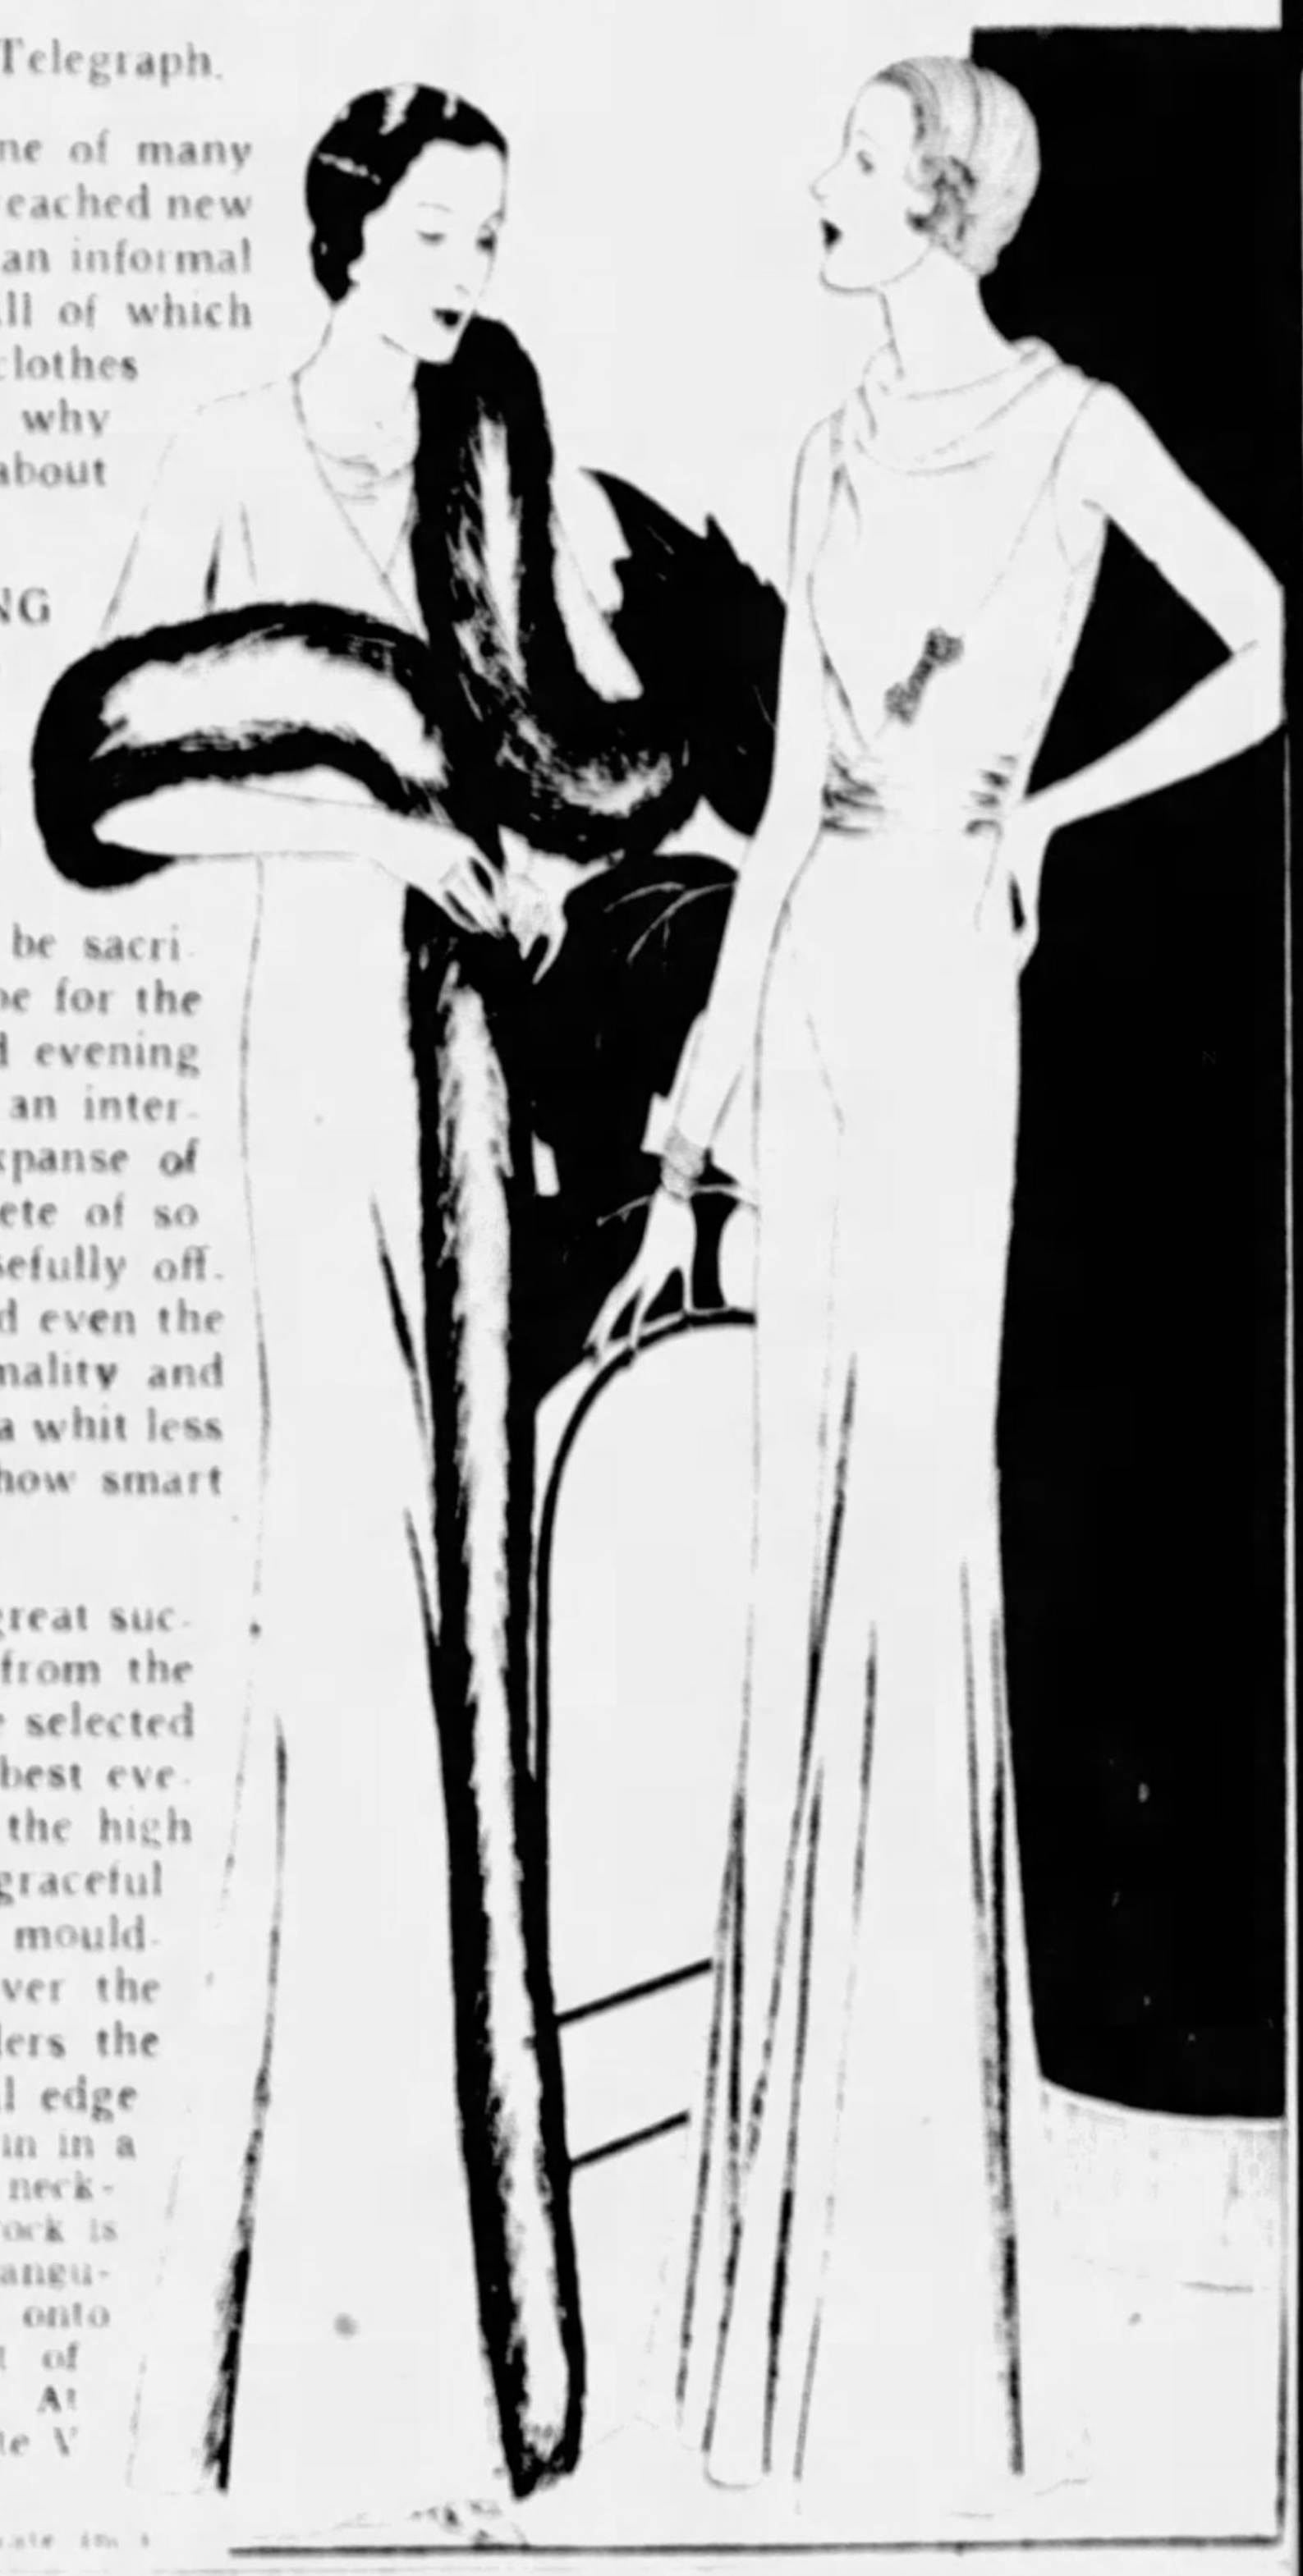
MANY NEW EVENING GOWNS FEATURE HIGH NECKLINES

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 22.—The neckline of many of the newest evening frocks have reached new highs, while the decollete of many an informal dinner frock is extremely low. All of which goes to make and keep evening clothes exceedingly interesting. After all, why should there be any arbitrary rule about clothes?

CHANGE IS REFRESHING and one has only to watch the pageant of the mode to see how well everything is handled and how wise it is to drop old ideas in favor of new, even radical, notions. Of course, good taste must never be sacrificed, otherwise the change must be for the worse. So far as the high-necked evening frock is concerned, the change is an interesting and pleasing one. The expanse of back that characterizes the decollete of so many frocks is pleasantly and tasefully offset by the new high neckline. And even the woman who is a stickler for formality and convention will not feel that she is a whit less formal and correct when she sees how smart the new high decollete is.

MAGGY ROUFF has made a great success with her new collection and from the many lovely things shown we have selected for sketching purposes one of her best evening ensembles, a model showing the high cowl neckline. The lovely and graceful coat is in cobalt blue duvetyn. It is moulded closely at the waistline and over the hips. Rich natural blue fox borders the oddly shaped cape and the vertical edge of the wrap itself. The dress is of satin in a light tobacco shade. The high cowl neckline that is a feature of this formal frock is achieved through the medium of a triangular kerchief of the material appliqued onto a snugly fitted bodice. A bow knot of strass embroidery is worked at one side. At the back the neckline forms a moderate V decollete with a rolled edge.

Relief Now Vital To Future, Says Mrs. W. Frew

Mrs. William Frew, society leader, today appealed to Pittsburgh women to add their support to the Family-Help-Family plan to raise sufficient funds to care for 28,000 destitute families in the county. She said:

Mrs. Frew

"If one could travel for a day at the side of one of our public health nurses and see at first hand actual conditions in hundreds on hundreds of homes, further question would be entertained as to the stark necessity for providing care immediately. Health, the keystone of coming generations, must be protected. It is seriously endangered by present conditions, leading to anemia, tuberculosis and other diseases having tragic effects. The success of the family-help-family appeal will strike a direct blow at malnutrition and disease. It must succeed."

BOGUS NAMES MUST STAY ON VOTE LISTS

Arrests Loom if 'Phantoms' Go to Polls; Clerical Task Balks Purging of Books

Thousands of names on the registry books of Allegheny County, believed to have been placed there illegally, cannot be removed in time for next Tuesday's primary election, it was admitted today at the Elections Bureau, and many arrests were forecast if illegal votes are cast.

It was said that while the 160 sub-assessors have completed a door-to-door canvass to make possible listing of eligible voters, these cannot be typed in time to enable the County Board of the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and the Registration Commissioners to compare them with the registry lists and strike off phantom names. It was said the work was not started in time under the new county administration to permit completion of the task. However, at the Registration Commission office the following statement was authorized:

"It will be 'just too bad' for persons who vote illegally in the city Tuesday. Those who do so will be prosecuted."

All complaints of illegal voting, it was announced, should be telephoned to the Election Bureau in the new County Building. These will be inquired into under the direction of Leo Riordan, chief investigator, whose force has completed the work of obtaining names of qualified electors.

URGES CITY PAY TAX FOR NEEDY

A new relief proposal, that the city should pay itself taxes and water rents out of bond funds on properties occupied by dependent families, has been made to City Council by the Pittsburgh Housing Association.

It is suggested that a part of the proposed $3,000,000 city bond issue for direct relief be used to pay for repairs, taxes and water rents on houses where tenants have been unable to pay rent. Since the city's chief revenues are derived from real estate, it is suggested the city should take steps to keep this source of revenue from deteriorating.

POLITICS

Indifference to Special Session Is Dangerous.

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

On Page Two of the Sun-Telegraph today Quin Hall has a cartoon graphically depicting the indifference of politicians to preparation for a special session of the Legislature while they campaign the state for candidates for public and party office.

Some weeks ago in the Sun-Telegraph it was urged that as a prelude to a special session there should be a conference of all political elements, business and financial leaders and welfare experts, to lay down a legislative program which could be accepted by all factions, introduced at a special session, and passed forthwith.

It was recent history that a special session called last winter without such preliminary conferences had quickly become entangled in the play of politics, that the Pinchot group and the organization political wing led by Republican State Chairman Martin had wrangled themselves out of every effort at compromise, and that the net result of six weeks in Harrisburg was the Talbot bill, a haphazard appropriation of $8 for each unemployed person in the state.

There was nothing of a constructive nature accomplished, no long-term planning for future emergencies, or for the possibility of a necessitous condition next winter. The next regular session of the Legislature will not come until January, too late to take care of next winter if governmental measures are needed.

Reviewing the abortive record of the last special session, it was recognized that another session called under the same circumstances would encounter the same political obstacles. But so far nothing has been done toward preliminary conferences looking to a session which, it is reliably understood, Mr. Pinchot has said positively he would call.

Pinchot Campaigning For His Candidates

Instead Mr. Pinchot has been campaigning the state in behalf of his candidates for public office, and has been directing the effort to elect party officers to give him control of the party machinery. Gen. Martin has been active in behalf of opposition candidates all along the line.

It is assumed that Mr. Pinchot has held some conferences within his own circle, has consulted members of his own cabinet who have to deal with the legal and fiscal aspects of any relief measures. But that, useful as it is, does not meet the situation. These inner circle conferences should long ago have progressed to a stage where the Governor could call in political factors of opposing faiths. All should sit down together and sink personal and political aims in a co-operative effort for the general good.

After the primary Mr. Pinchot is scheduled to attend a national conference of governors. That will bring us to the first of May before he is back in Harrisburg and ready for official business in Pennsylvania. Each day that a conference is delayed, if one is to be held, increases the danger of political collisions.

The meeting of the Republican State Committee will be held in May, with the Governor contending with the Martin group for party control. To the bitterness and hatreds engendered by the primary will be added the acrimony inevitable in the state committee contest. Political byplay will take the attention of the legislators, and many of the leaders will be thinking and planning farther ahead to the Republican national convention in early June, at which the regular organization and Mr. Pinchot again are expected to clash.

Conference Delay May Mean Irreparable Harm

It may be that interminable delay in a conference and a special session already has worked irreparable harm. That can only be told if a test is made.

And there should be no more delays while men in high public and private office play state and national politics.

I have a letter from Timothy L. Fahey, signing himself as secretary of the "Fourth Ward Independent Republican Party," repudiating the action of the executive committee of this organization, which had repudiated the indorsement by County Commissioner C. M. Barr of Congressman P. J. Sullivan against his two leading opponents, former Congressman John Morin and Councilman M. J. Muldowney.

Mr. Fahey insists Sullivan is the choice of the organized Independents of the Thirty-second District. Mr. Barr says the same. The executive committee by a majority says there has been no indorsement. Downtown Independent headquarters displays Sullivan prominently in its literature. Mr. Fahey says his executive committee had no right either to make or deny indorsements.

So you can make from this what you will, beyond the fact that there seems to be a real spirit of complete independence in the Fourth Ward, with Independent Republicans independent even of each other.

A foretaste of what a ruction there will be in Philadelphia within a few years—at most—when its organization is reorganized, is evident in the case of former Mayor Harry Mackey, seeking election to the Legislature. Some leaders have indorsed him. They are labeled Vare men. Yet Vare's daughter, Miss Beatrice, an able campaigner, is making anti-Mackey speeches with her father's permission. Within two years there will be political civil war on the Delaware similar to that which has occurred in Allegheny County.

WOMEN READY TO BEGIN WORK MONDAY

Only Persistence Necessary For Relief of Thousands, Senator Harris Asserts

Contributions which will give immediate relief to 326 more families under the Family-Help-Family plan, were reported at the campaign workers' luncheon in the William Penn Hotel today.

These brought the total of families cared for to 3,631 out of the 28,000 in need of immediate relief when the plan was launched by State Senator Frank J. Harris.

Women workers are scheduled to start work Monday. The activities of this division will be featured by a meeting tonight in Langley High School. Speakers will be Roy A. MacGregor, Charles H. Graham, Mrs. F. C. Irish and Mrs. Saul Lavine.

Hundreds of families remaining to be provided for will be directly benefited by the contributions of high school children, teachers and school employes, Mrs. Harry Miller, a member of the women's committee, announced today. Their plans have been approved by the school board.

Teachers in all schools are organized and will take part in the appeal as individuals. The school board already had permitted teachers to submit the appeal to students in several schools and organization work is under way in the colleges.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association will economize on the city and county funds before they draw on the state appropriations, it was announced yesterday. Nearly half a million dollars is available under the Talbot bill, but this will not be needed for about another week.

Several weeks ago the city and county appropriated $260,000 each and of this amount the city has enough money to continue work another week. The demand for need on the county funds has not been so great.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.,
April 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Country's been full of jokes at the expense of the radio announcers, but have you caught any of these political speakers that are desecrating the ether? Why, you actually want to kiss the announcer when he comes on after one of those.

Took three years of solid depression to get the truth out of dear old Charley Schwab.

Thirty-eight airplanes with mail and passengers come and go daily from Los Angeles airports. Congress is just like us individuals, they are finding it tough to dig up the money they spent last year that they didn't have.

RACKETS GIVEN ORDER TO CLOSE

Police orders were sent out through secret channels to the city's racketeers today that they must "close and stay closed" until further notice, those who claim to know about such things say.

Two reasons were given: The approach of Mayor Charles H. Kline's trial in Butler on charges of malfeasance in office and the raids made on downtown race "bookie" shops yesterday by county detectives.

Both Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh and Inspector Albert Beebe, in charge of the downtown district, today said that they were unaware that the bookie shops raided by the county officers were in existence.

Today's closing orders went to liquor clubs, speakeasies, lottery headquarters, gambling rooms and bookie shops, it is said.

Four alleged proprietors of downtown bookmaking quarters today were held for court by Alderman Thomas M. Geary. They are James Thompson, 410 Third avenue; Charles Chambers, 118 Sixth street; John F. Conway, 810 House Building, and Abe Golden, 305 Diamond street.

'Peace' Makers Assure Gibbons Steady War Job

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Had lunch with Floyd Gibbons yesterday. He's waiting for the League of Nations to forward him blueprints of the next war.

The Chinese and Japanese refuse to fight without Floyd keeping score.

The Japs picked him for that Shanghai job because they didn't want a home-town referee.

If you know about a war being steamed up anywhere, just wire Gibbons. Since he got back from Shanghai he's champing at the bit.

At the luncheon yesterday we had to load a gun with rice and raisins and shoot it down his throat.

Floyd's business is expert bookkeeping for battles.

And thanks to those delightful efforts of the diplomats in Geneva, he will never be out of a job.

SPEED SUBWAY PLAN, HERRON DEMANDS

Early Action Sought from Transit Commission While Clashes Mark Hearing

The Transit Commission has been asked by City Council to submit a plan for a subway as soon as facts can be gathered. In the meantime, Council has held in abeyance the Grant street subway plan of Norman F. Brown and Edward Snodgrass, Jr.

After a long session yesterday, featured by fiery debate in which George S. Davison, chairman of the Transit Commission; John S. Herron, president of Council; Councilman W. Y. English and Snodgrass took leading parts, members of the commission agreed it was proper that, having disapproved the Brown-Snodgrass plan, they should offer another. Herron said:

"We have been studying this thing 13 years. We want it cleared up once and for all."

SEEKS PROMPT ACTION

He asked that the plans of the commission be presented as soon as possible. In taking this action the recommendation of the Retail Merchants' Association presented by Edgar J. Kaufmann was followed. The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board stood with the Transit Commission in rejecting the Brown-Snodgrass plan.

Davison declared proponents of the Brown-Snodgrass plan had withheld important information from the commission and had on several occasions changed their plans since they were first submitted. He continued:

"The proponents of the Brown-Snodgrass plan on April 2 said serious thought had been given to their project for seven years. I think it is about time for the Transit Commission to adjourn and wait until this seven-year proposition has been brought to a head."

Davison also said the statement that the subway could be started in 90 days was ridiculous.

FAVOR SMITHFIELD STREET

English asked what the Transit Commission has done to reach an agreement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company regarding the Smithfield street subway. Davison replied numerous conferences had been held and that, of all plans for loops, the railways company favored the Smithfield street route.

With English pressing the point that the Transit Commission had not obtained a definite agreement with the Railways company, Councilman P. J. McArdle came to the defense of the Commission with the declaration that no route has ever been decided upon on which to base an intelligent discussion of the costs with the railways company.

Snodgrass spoke for his plan and became involved in numerous arguments. He said to Davison:

"Those who have absolute control in business find it difficult when they lay down decisions to accept anything else—that's you."

SHARP TURNS SEEN

Davison insisted that the turns on the Brown-Snodgrass subway would be too sharp for rapid transit. Detailed plans submitted by Brown, he said, had not been given to the Transit Commission for study. Asked after the meeting how soon the Transit Commission would recommend its subway plan, Davison answered:

"Don't ask me anything now."

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce has asked for a hearing on the subway next Friday. A special committee is headed by William L. Munro.

TASK FOR UTILITIES

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, in an opinion to Council declared the public utility corporations owning lines under the streets in the path of the subway will be required to move them at their own expense.

J. H. O'Donnell, engineer, opposed the subway and suggested a by-pass system from the Boulevard of the Allies by way of Water street to the Point. E. N. Hunting, engineer, spoke against the subway.

Harry R. Bunton read a statement favoring a rapid transit system to the North Side.

CITY TREASURY EMPLOYE — R. E. MILLER — COL. W. R. DUNLAP

Col. Dunlap, Director of City Supplies, looking on with satisfaction as Mr. Miller, 706 West North avenue, paid $1 for two buildings he bought from the city. They're 4500 and 4502 Penn avenue, but both must be torn down within 15 days to make room for street improvements. Mr. Miller will demolish them, sell lumber and fixtures. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

EXISTING SCALE WILL EXPIRE NEXT WEEK

Truce to Avert Walkout Over Pay Dispute Sought; Parleys Bring No Results

The impending breech between the Pittsburgh Railways Company and its 2,200 operators, over wages, will be taken to City Council next Monday by Charles A. Finley, chairman of the Traction Conference Board, it was announced today.

Efforts to reach a wage agreement have failed and the present contract expires April 30. Whether the operators will quit work or a truce be declared pending a settlement will not be known before the end of next week.

Today it became known that the drastic cut in expenses was recommended by the Traction Board to the Railways company, to meet a decreasing revenue.

WAGE CUT SOUGHT

The company has asked the employes to accept a voluntary reduction of 10 per cent, and has declared that if it is not accepted a 15 per cent cut will be imposed by the company.

W. H. Gallagher, chairman of the wage committee, and P. J. McGrath, secretary, have refused statements pending further developments. A representative of the international union likely will be called in if an agreement is not reached soon, it was learned today.

Of the company's position, Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the railways company, yesterday said:

"The revenue of the company has been sharply decreased since the current business depression began. The receipts for 1931 were $4,193,318 lower than in 1929. Based on the present trend it is estimated revenues for 1932 will be approximately $3,000,000 below those of 1931, or a total decrease since 1929 of $7,200,000.

DEFICITS CITED

"Although there has been a decline in passenger receipts in every year since 1924, the company was able to reduce operating expenses in each of these years up to and including 1929 by the use of improved methods in all departments in amounts sufficient to offset the loss in receipts.

"In the years 1930 and 1931 the rate of revenue decline was so great and so rapid that a corresponding reduction in operating expenses could not be made. Operations resulted in deficits in the years 1930 and 1931, and the present trend of revenues and expenses indicates that a deficit in excess of $4,000,000 will be developed for the year 1932.

"The severity of the decline in receipts is illustrated by the fact that the revenues for 1932 are expected to be no more than approximately was spent for operation and maintenance in 1929."

Cherry Blossoms Not Out This Week

Tourists who motor to Washington this week-end to see the famous Japanese cherry blossoms will be disappointed, James A. Hemstreet, manager of the travel department of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, said today.

The single cherry blossoms which bloom first are almost gone, he said, while the double blossoms, expected to be out this week, have been held up by cold weather. The double blossoms, Hemstreet said, should be out by April 27 and in their most beautiful stage about May 1.

A 73-year-old couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, bid $27 today to save their two-story frame dwelling at 328 Manor street in the auctioning of houses in line of the Mt. Washington roadway extension.

Mrs. Wright broke down and cried as bidding started on the house which had been built for them by their son and had been their home for 25 years. Her husband continued the bidding until he had obtained the house. He said they would move it back 40 feet to clear city premises and would continue to occupy it. They had been awarded $3,000 by the Board of Viewers.

Altogether Col. W. R. Dunlap, City Supplies Director, auctioned off 21 houses, 12 in Arlington ave., nine near the Liberty tubes and the remainder in Manor street for a total of $303.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today directed the United States District Attorney's office to submit an order to the court for the cancellation of a naturalization certificate granted Bertalan Kate, [illegible], of Homestead, and the suspension of political rights for 10 years.

The order was made on complaint of naturalization officials who contended that Kate had concealed the fact that he was convicted and sentenced for homicide in Hungary in 1907. Kate admitted the allegations but contended that there were extenuating circumstances.

Kate has seven children, all residing in Europe. He has been employed as a blacksmith in the Carnegie mills in Homestead.

The Mail quoted his widow as having said the debts were due to heavy racing losses, extravagant living and excessive generosity.

Jones Estate and Oil Firm Taxes Abated

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(I.S.)—The estate of Benjamin F. Jones, Jr., of Pittsburgh was awarded an estate tax abatement and refund of $2,276,419 as the result of the payment of state inheritance taxes and a decision of the Board of Tax Appeals, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today.

Home Owners

At the Primaries on Tuesday, April 26th you will have the opportunity to vote for or against two bond issues:

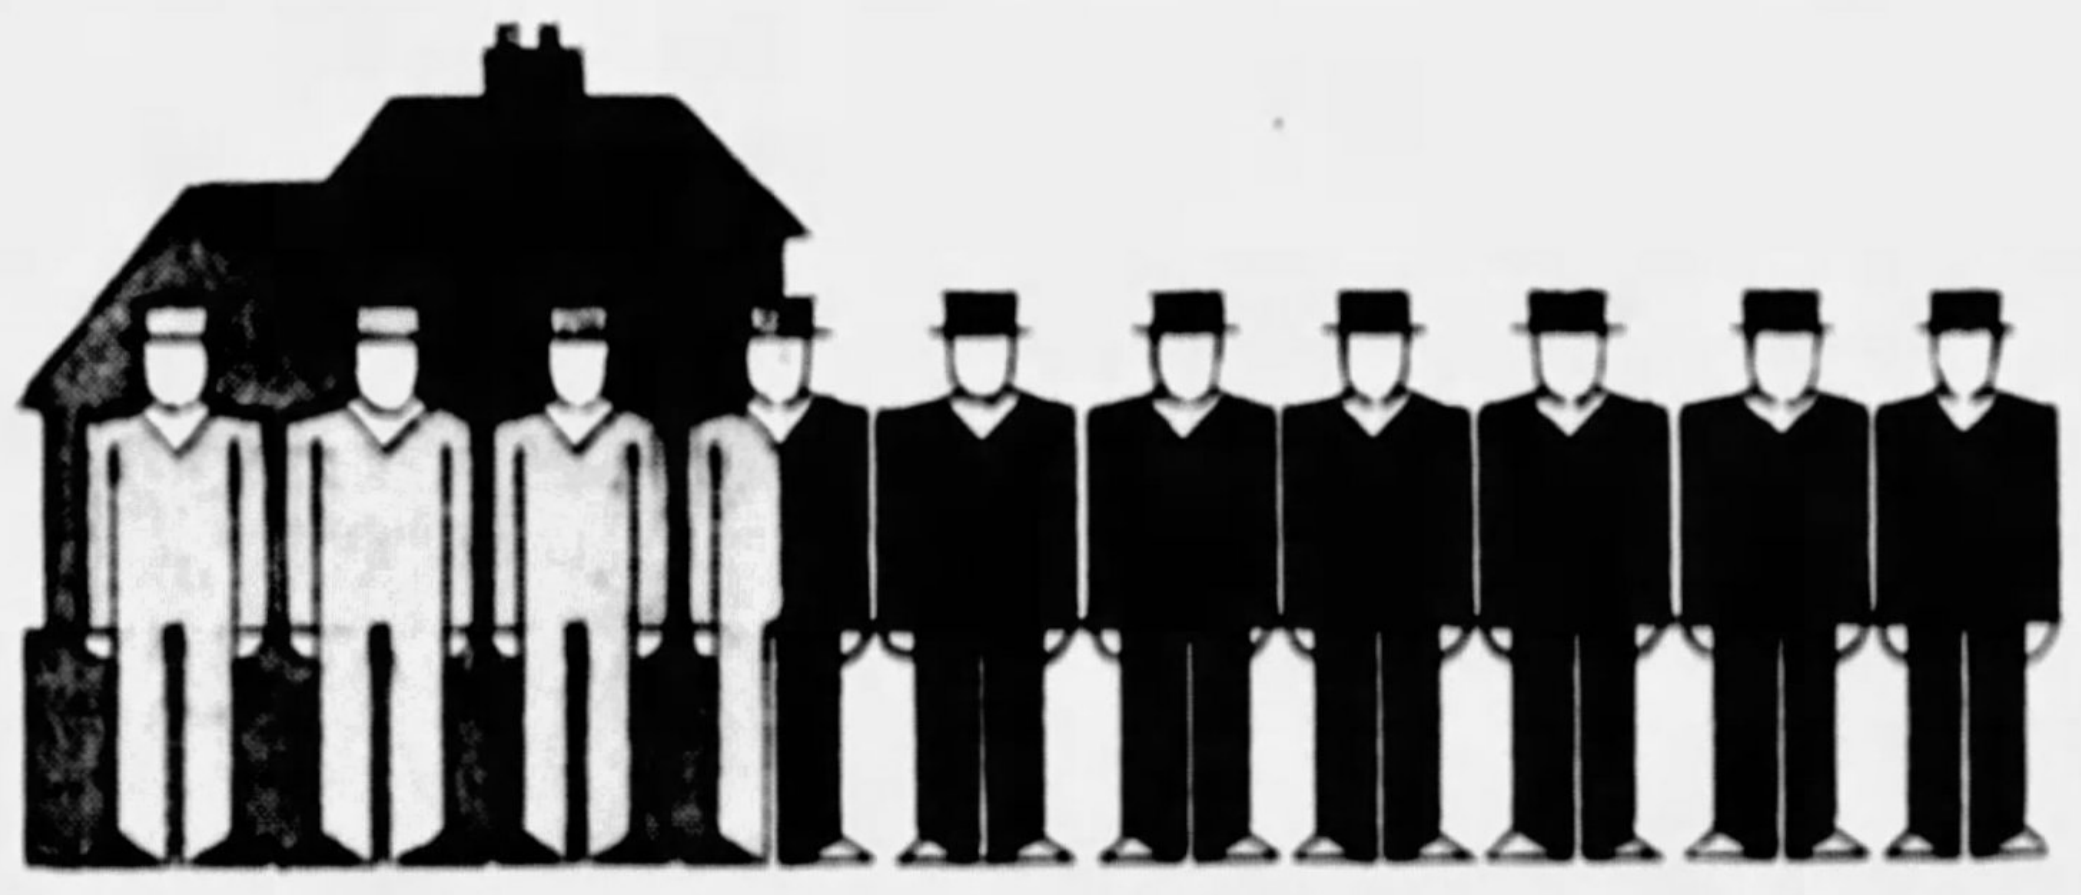
One for $2,000,000.00 to provide work

One for $3,000,000.00 for direct relief

This $5,000,000.00 plus interest and retirement costs must be paid through Taxation on Real Estate.

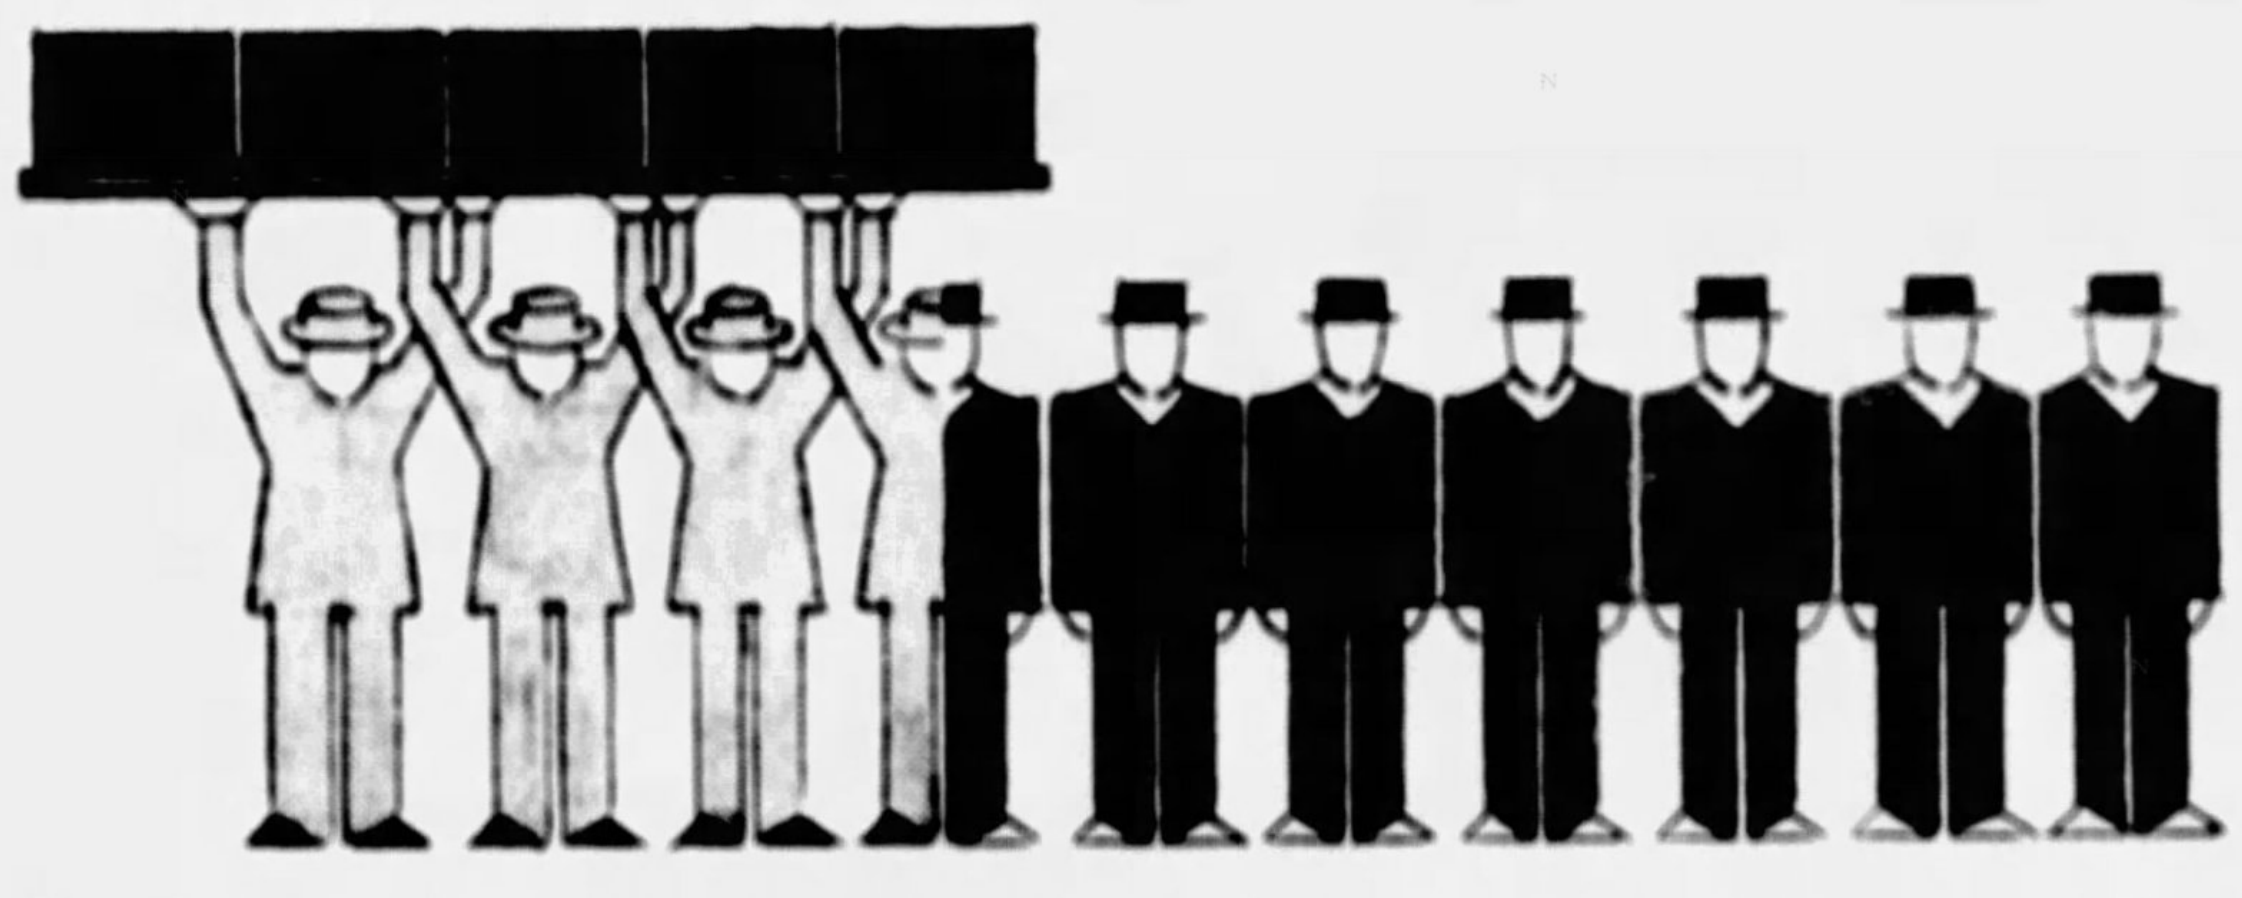
The Real Estate Board and Other Civic Organizations are Opposed.

We present below the Home Owners problem and urge you to vote against these bond issues.



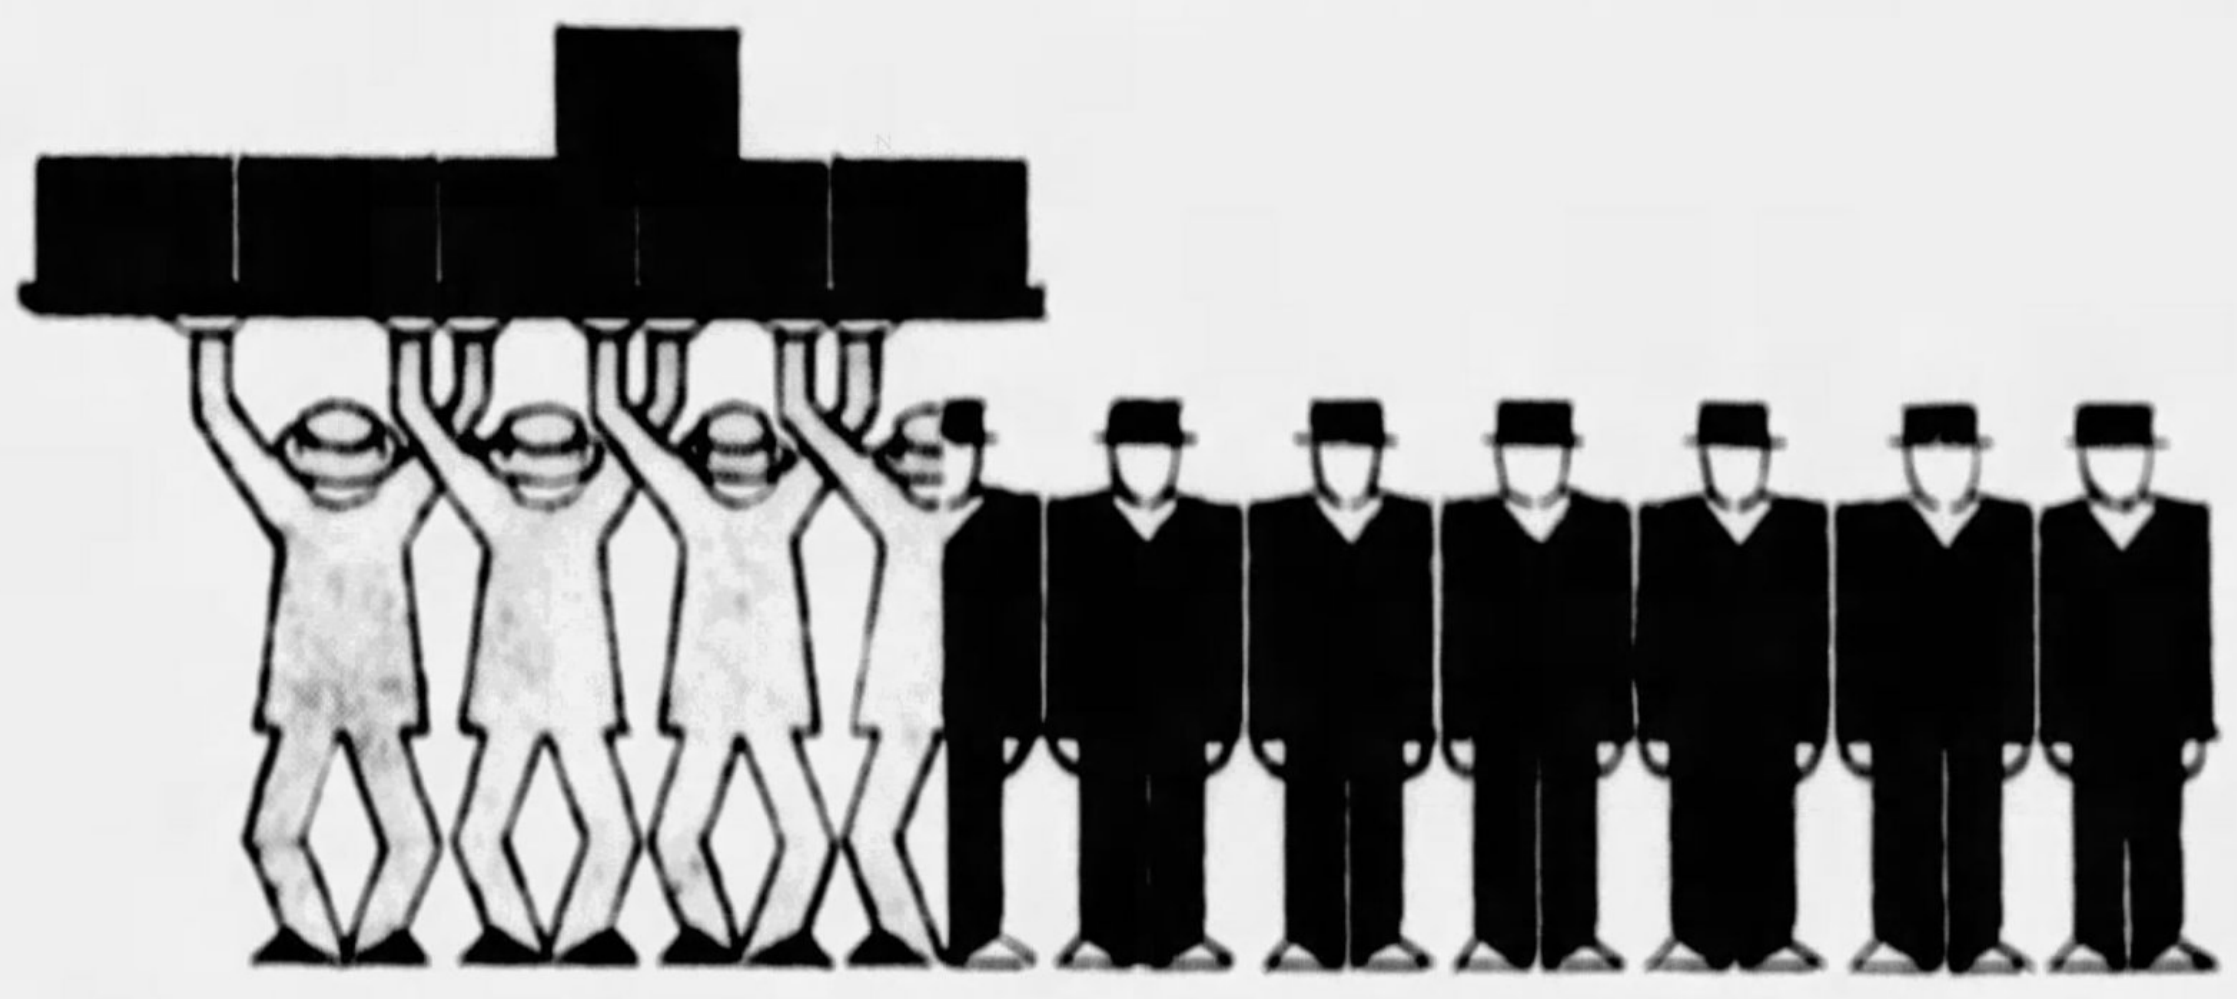
The gray figures represent you, the Pittsburgh home owner.

BECAUSE 351 out of every 1000 families in Pittsburgh, are HOME OWNERS...



The black blocks carried by the three and one-half figures show you carrying your load of Taxation.

BECAUSE over 80% of City Taxes falls on Real Estate Owners...



The extra block represents the additional load you will carry if the bond issues pass.

BECAUSE... The bond issues are going to be paid MOSTLY by real estate owners in form of added burden for the next twenty years.

> Added taxes mean added delinquencies and more foreclosures, jeopardizing the very solvency of your city.

Property owners have already contributed to this emergency by personal pledges in the Welfare drive, by losses through vacancies and delinquency.

They are ready, if all other means fail, (private contributions, welfare drives, Harris Family-Help-Family drive, State funds, Federal funds) to reconsider the bond issue at a later date.

Mussolini [illegible] to do that to Italy which Julius Caesar first attempted in the year 48 B. C. and in which emperors since have failed. It is the reclaiming of 200,000 acres of marsh lands known as the Pontine Swamps near Rome. Mussolini will devote the acreage when reclaimed to the growing of wheat. Mussolini lines up 100 tractor plows and a vast amount of other agricultural machines to engage in the preliminary work and as a climax to the ceremonies 2,000 tree stumps are blown up in a succession of blasts. The pictures are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters with a graphic description by the Globe Trotter.

Our Heroine Once Was Tadpole

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Wayward came into the Fulton yesterday. It is the drama of a selfish mother who tries to wreck things for a couple of love birds.

Pauline Frederick has the mother role. She does a good job of it though she'll get no sympathy from audiences. That is reserved for Nancy Carroll, the show girl who marries the scion of a wealthy small-town family and then goes to live with her husband's people. And they take to her like a duck takes to an escalator.

A parlor full of relations are on hand to greet the newly-weds. And this is the picture's most entertaining episode. It is the old family album come to life.

Eventually Richard Arlen, portraying young husband, decides to go to work. He gets a job in a factory and takes his wife off to a home of their own. The baby comes and the bills. And it's back to Mother Frederick.

But it's no better than before. And in a dispairing moment the wife takes a few drinks too many and runs away with a blacksheep brother-in-law.

One scene has Miss Frederick pushing Nancy out into the night, slamming the door in her face. It's like an old melodrama except that Miss Frederick doesn't shout "Never darken my door again."

At the finale, however, the young family is happily re-united. Which is as it should be, for according to Mr. Arlen himself, the hero and heroine have been in love ever since the girl was a red-headed tadpole.

Well, if the picture is propaganda for Darwinism, make the most of it!

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"THE STORY was told to me by Dr. Haines, the dental surgeon," writes Bert Nevins, "and he asked me to pass it on to you. The yarn concerns a Vermont town that is located not too many miles from the Canadian border. Inasmuch as you'd probably change the name of the spot before you used it anyhow, I'll save you the trouble by giving it the fictitious handle of Boozeville.

"Boozeville is known throughout the East as a stopping-off place for hootch shipments that have successfully cleared the Canadian border. Practically everyone in town has a hand in some liquor transaction or other.

"The Prohibition Department, after receiving several complaints, finally went into action. Two agents were dispatched to Boozeville to uncover what they could. They arrived in town and as soon as they stepped into a cab the driver became suspicious of their appearance. He strained his ears and caught snatches of the conversation as he bounced along. As soon as they stepped from the machine and entered the hotel the driver raced around to various spots with the news that there were two dry agents in town. Before long everyone who counted had the information and the description of the agents.

"The prohibition men had their dinner and then went to work. In front of the hotel they hailed a cab and told the chauffeur very innocently that they would like to go somewhere for a drink. The driver nodded agreeably and started off. He hit the main highway and continued driving. They must have been riding fully three-quarters of an hour when one of the agents poked his head through the window.

"'Hey, buddy,' he asked, 'where are you taking us?'

"'I'm taking you to a place where you can get something to drink,' was the reply.

"'Well, what's the idea of driving us away out here?'

"'Oh,' murmured the cabby, 'it's not so far. Just another mile or so and we'll be in Canada.'

"'Canada!' ejaculated both agents in unison.

"'Certain,' returned the driver in a very naive fashion. 'Canada is the only place I know of around these parts where you can get a drink.'

"The agents were driven back to Boozeville and refused to pay the cab bill, which now came to some $15. The Sheriff was called and he promptly threatened them both with jail unless they came across.

"They paid—and left the next morning. And there hasn't been a prohibition man in Boozeville ever since!"

"PERHAPS YOU'D like to use this actual experience of mine," writes Jerry Sack, of Chicago. "I was working as an usher in one of those large Chicago motion picture houses where the rule pertaining to flirtations with young women is particularly strict. I had just been transferred there 'for the good of the service' and was unacquainted with everyone but the chief usher, whom I knew from a previous theater.

"Just before I started, the chief took me to one side.

"'I'm slipping you a little piece of advice,' he said. 'The manager here is one tough baby. If you see anything real sweet and you can make the connection, you know that I'll be glad to step out with you. But be careful.'

"Around 10 o'clock that night I came across a natural. There sat two charming girlies who were evidently being annoyed by some bad aisle hoodlum. After threatening the mug, I asked the girls to step out and advised them to notify an usher whenever they were annoyed.

"I seated them in the last row and proceeded to smile whenever I passed again. They smiled back. Before the picture was over, I had dated both of them and had sent for the chief to look them over. He gave me the cheerful okay and everything was jake.

"A few minutes later he returned with bad news. He told me I'd have to work late duty because the manager's wife had been taken ill and he was leaving early.

"'But what about the girls?' I asked him.

"'Oh,' he replied. 'I'll get rid of yours and take mine out alone.'

"What could I do? I knew the manager was tough and I did want to keep the job. So when at 11 o'clock, the girls and the chief walked out, I smiled a good-night and let it go at that.

"A few minutes later, I went out to get a paper and was my face red. There were the manager and the chief helping the two girls into the manager's car!" . . .

PLAYS AND PLAYERS -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

In addition to Ethel Waters, the cast of "Rhapsody In Black," which returns to the Alvin for the week opening next Monday, includes Valaida, Berry Brothers, Dusty Fletcher, Florence Hill, Blue McAllister, Avis Andrews, Geneva Washington, Eloise Uggams, Cecil Mack's Choir and the Pike Davis Orchestra. These Negro artists cover the wide field of song, dance, comedy and music from blues to spirituals. The usual night and matinee performances will be given. You can box-office for it right now.

The date now announced for the presentation of "Hay Fever," which was kept out of the Alvin this week by the illness of Constance Collier, is the week of May 9. The tour of this Noel Coward comedy, which is to be the final play in the Professional Players series, is expected to be resumed next week, with another artist substituting for Miss Collier, but it is thought she will resume her place in the cast by the time the Pittsburgh engagement begins. Manager George Young of the Alvin yesterday announced new tickets would be sent to several hundred subscribers of the Professional Players.

In the season that is passing out Brock Pemberton did the same after the critics found his sole output of the theatrical year, "Three Times an Hour," not up to their opinion of what they consider the times. So its appearances were scarcely more frequent than the number in its title. But Mr. Pemberton is off the woolly-worm diet now and is positive that there still is a charm in "three," so he will produce that many plays next season. They are "East of the Sun," by Bosley Crowther and William DuBois; "Lovers, Happy Lovers," by Lewis Galantiere and John Haussmann; "Christopher Comes Across," a farce comedy about Columbus, by Hawthorne Hurst. The Mr. DuBois mentioned above tarried in a Pittsburgh hotel for a week when Lenore Ulrich was breaking in "Pagan Lady" here. Mr. DuBois at that time was wrestling with the script of "Pagan Lady," but only could be induced to change a word here and there despite copious comment of local critics.

Lee Tracy or Jack Oakie may be the columnist in the film of "Blessed Event," to which James Cagney originally had been assigned . . . Anna Sten, Russian film actress, who was seen on our screen in the German film, "The Brothers Karamazov," has arrived in New York, en route to Hollywood to act in an English version of the same play . . . "The Truth About Hollywood" will be recorded in celluloid by Constance Bennett and Neil Hamilton as the chief non-fibbers . . . Adolphe Menjou has been engaged for a principal featured role in "Fancy Free," in which Joan Marsh will be the prominent femme . . . Ralph Bellammy will play the role for which Charles Farrell was cast in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and Marian Nixon will have the part that was refused by Janet Gaynor, who is fed up on Pollyanna stuff for the time being . . . Harry Lauder will make another farewell tour in the autumn, the itinerary to embrace all the breadth of the U. S., to be covered in 22 weeks.

There Are Temptations for Girls Everywhere

Are all chorus gals hussies? And are there more dark and dire temptations behind the footlights than there are behind the switchboard or the bookkeeping desk?

Marion asked. She loved the stage. She loved to sing and to dance, and she wanted to make that her life work, but—

"Oh no! You mustn't," said dad [illegible]. "If you do, you'll be a marked woman. No one will believe you're good, and if you stay on the stage the chances are you won't be. In spite of what you think now, the fast life will get you."

So poor Marion didn't know what to do and she asked us. We put it up to the gang, and today here's Marianne with a big hand for the footlights.

"Dear Miss Martin:

I've just read Marion's letter about going on the stage and I'd like to tell my story. I think it will help her decide.

When I was only 16 I got a job in the chorus. When the show went on the road, however, my folks made me quit because they didn't want me to go trouping so young. In fact, they decided I was to quit the stage for good.

"They had heard so much talk about chorus girls and actresses in general, and of backstage temptations from friends who had heard them tell, it only meant it for my good that they thought they were protecting me and saving me from future trouble and unhappiness.

"We [illegible] instead of carrying away [illegible] ambition. I stayed at home and took a secretarial course.

MET TEMPTATIONS

"I have been working in offices for the past two years and my salary has decreased so that I am now making just $15 a week and am mostly dependent on my folks.

"And as for temptations, I never met so many as I have since I started working as a stenographer. If a man is a rotter and wants to tempt you, it doesn't matter to him whether you're a chorine or a steno, now does it really? Or don't you know what goes on in so many offices?

"And besides that side of it, although I am not quite 18, life seems to hold nothing to be interested in since the one thing I wanted to do has been taken away from me.

"There is only one thing for you to do, Marion, if you want to be happy and satisfied, and that is to work at the job you want to work at. Take that place in the chorus. You will never be content in any other field if that is what you want to do.

LIVE OWN LIFE

"As for the intolerant, evil-minded bigots who might look down on you for being an actress, or folks who might try to tempt you for the same reason, just hold your head high, live as finely as you know how, and don't notice the rodents.

"We have a lot of them wherever we may be. They're not worth looking on for and stopping what we want to do. So why do it? Why let people like that direct the course of our lives? We have to live our lives, not they.

"And as for people respecting you, the right sort of people—why, look at Ethel Barrymore, and the late Minnie Maddern Fiske. Does anyone point a finger at them? They certainly do not. It's the way you live, on the stage or off it, that counts.

"So please, Marion, stick to the stage if you like it. People have liked you there, and the chances are you won't be happy anywhere else. Don't waste your life in uncongenial work, as I feel I am wasting mine.

MARIANNE

Right you are, Marianne!

There are temptations all around us if we're sappy enough to fall for them, no matter where we are.

And any little girl, if she has spunk and sense and discrimination, can be a good little girl on any job.

Familiar Face in Strange Place Plunges Fay King Into Mental Mystery

AH! THERE YOU ARE
CORDIAL CONVERSATION BUT MENTAL MYSTERY
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

My memory for faces is excellent, if the faces are where I expect to find them.

But a familiar face in an unfamiliar place plunges me into mental mystery.

Of course there are casual conversations one can carry on indefinitely to hide this mental state.

But lately I met a most familiar face on the main highway. We were getting on nicely with that cordial but concealing conversation when suddenly the face accused me of doubt as to its identity.

To hide my blush and embarrassment I put my hand before my face.

Viewing the face through my fingers instantly solved the problem and saved the situation.

I was at once aware that it belonged behind the barred window of a cashier's cage!

Can Z Go Game

Look carefully over the hands shown below. The final declaration is 4-Spades doubled by A. The opening lead is the K of Hearts. Can Z go game against any defense open to A-B?

            ♠ J 9 3
            ♥ 6 2
            ♣ K Q 10 8 7
            ♦ Q 10 7
♠ 8 7 2                  ♠ 4
♥ A K Q J 9      Y       ♥ 10 7 3
♣ 4 2          A   B     ♣ A 5 3
♦ K 9 6          Z       ♦ J 8 5 4 3 2
            ♠ A K Q 10 6 5
            ♥ 8 5 4
            ♣ J 9 6

The bidding went: Z, 2-Spades; A, 3-Hearts; Y, 3-Spades; B, 4-Hearts; Z, 4-Spades; A, Double, all passed.

The event happened some time ago but it will bear repeating on account of B's intelligent action. I happened to be A and Mr. George Kling, one of our most able players, was my partner. When I doubled I knew that my partner never would let the double stand unless he held at least one defensive trick, or in case he held more than four hearts. Apparently the declarer held six established spades and one side ace. Had Z held greater strength in spades he would have made an opening game bid. All this was clear as soon as I had led my K of Hearts and had viewed dummy.

I was satisfied that Kling held either one or the other missing minor Ace, but which one? I knew that the declarer held at least two losing hearts. If B had held as many as five cards of my suit he never would have passed my double. I could count upon two heart tricks and a possible trick in diamonds in case I did not lead that suit. If I led a diamond and if Z held the A-X with the Q in dummy, I might just hand game to him. On the other hand if the Ace of Clubs happened to be held by Z a lead of that suit might cause him to draw trumps with a possible opportunity for discarding enough losers in his other suits upon Y's established clubs to yield game.

Even if I guessed correctly which minor ace my partner held, we could not safely count upon winning more than two heart tricks and one trick for his Ace. We required another defensive trick to save the game, and I was none too certain that my K of Diamonds would win a trick. It was possible that the declarer held a singleton diamond or that he was void of that suit. Either I had to win a trick with my K of Diamonds or else I must ruff a club, but the situation defied accurate analysis. I had to stop leading hearts so as to be able to lead clubs twice, in order to obtain a ruff even if my partner held the Ace of Clubs. I had to depend upon my partner to read my motive and my holdings. Kling was one of the few players safe to trust to read the situation clearly.

Having led only a single winning heart, I led my top club, trusting my partner to read that had I been leading a singleton I would not have done so until after I had gathered in my two top hearts. Kling read the situation perfectly. He gave me his best come-on, the 5 of Clubs. Mr. Z was in a hole, being forced to lead either clubs or hearts or he would have to lose three heart tricks in case he at once pulled trumps. He took two rounds of spades, then he led a heart. I won the trick. My partner's Ace of Clubs won my second lead of clubs and I trumped a club lead for our fourth trick.

A Musty Kettle

The metal or enamel teapot that has become musty through disuse can be sweetened by filling it with water into which has been dropped a red-hot cinder. Close the lid and let stand a while. Rinse with clear water.

Household Hints

Dip animal crackers into pink icing and adorn edge of party cake.

To improve olives, soak them over night in olive oil to which a clove has been added.

Gristly meat should be cooked very slowly, as this softens the sinewy portions to a jelly, which is very nourishing.

Articles of silver which have become dull regain their original brilliance if immersed for several minutes in potato water.

Add a little starch to the water when washing mirrors, windows and all kinds of glassware. This removes dirt and gives a lasting polish.

When making coffee always warm the coffee pot, then sprinkle a little salt on the coffee before pouring on boiling water. This greatly improves the flavor.

Wedding Ushers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to be married soon, the ceremony in the afternoon to be followed by a reception in the evening. Instead of bridesmaids, I want to have only ushers. Is this proper?

2. Also I want to have your suggestion as to whether lace is to be more popular this spring than satin. What particular color is being featured for the maid of honor?

3. Is the groom supposed to give gifts to his ushers? If so, what would you suggest, something inexpensive?

BRIDE-TO-BE.

1—Yes. It is correct for the bride not to have bridesmaids, if she wishes. One of the loveliest metropolitan weddings that I have seen this year had no bridesmaids. Only a maid of honor and ushers. The ushers walk first in the processional, two by two; then the maid of honor, alone; last, the bride and her father.

2—Lace and satin seem to be sharing honors this spring, with lace perhaps a bit ahead. The family of pinks, from pale pink to a very deep pink, and yellows are very popular. And so are light blues.

3—Yes, the groom gives gifts, usually, to his attendants. Cigaret cases, wallets, cigaret lighters, pocket or wrist watches, key chains or key cases.

Restaurant Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a girl is dining with a man, is it proper for her to place her order directly with the waitress, or should she tell it to her escort?

2. When a girl is lunching or dining with a girl friend, what is the procedure as to this placing of the orders.

E.

1. The girl, who is the guest, gives her order to the man, who is the host. This seems logical and gracious . . . don't you think? And so much more "accustomed." I should think that a man would very much resent his guest giving her order to the waiter or waitress . . . and a man who knows what's what, DOES resent this. It adds a graceful charm to the beginning of the dining when he gives the orders to the waiter. If the orders vary, he gives first the girl's order.

2. If one girl is the hostess, then the girl who is guest gives her order to her hostess, and the hostess relays it, with her own order, to the waiter. This too is appropriate according to the hospitality idea.

If each girl is paying for her own luncheon or dinner, then each may give her own order.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Many Diseases Traceable to Some 'Focal Infection'

Doctors use many words and terms which are confusing to the layman. "Focal infection" is one of them. This expression has come into use within the past decade.

Dr. Copeland

A man may complain of pain in the back, knee or leg. Upon physical examination no abnormality is found. The real foundation of disturbance may be in the teeth, nose, tonsils, appendix, gall-bladder, or some other part of the body while the symptoms affect parts quite distant from the original point of infection.

The teeth are the most frequent seat of focal infection. This is best determined by an X-ray examination. The X-ray is of value too in determining the condition of the sinuses of the nose as well as the condition of the appendix and gall bladder.

Infected tonsils are often the seat of so-called focal infection. Digestive disturbances, headaches, high blood pressure and many other constitutional complaints sometimes result from the neglect of diseased tonsils. Infected and enlarged tonsils are a serious menace to the health and should be removed as soon as possible.

A diseased appendix also may be the seat of focal infection. Pain in the region of the appendix may or may not be present, but as a rule there are constant digestive disturbances, nausea, headache, backache and constipation. These symptoms and the general health becomes markedly improved after the removal of the diseased appendix.

Some times the seat of the trouble is a diseased gall bladder. In these cases sufficient disturbance occurs so that the gall bladder and digestive organs are quickly found to be the underlying cause.

The infection may be confirmed by a special X-ray examination, and this also gives definite information as to whether removal of the gall bladder is necessary.

The significance of focal infection is now recognized by all authorities. In former years many complaints did not respond to treatment because the possibility of focal infection was not recognized and the real seat of the trouble therefore was not found. Modern methods of diagnosis by means of the X-ray and special laboratory tests enable us to discover the source of irritation or the focus of infection.

Women said:
A fast working soap can't be safe!

BUT they didn't know about the New Oxydol then

● If sad experience with other soaps has convinced you that a soap able to soak dirt out quickly is too strong for colors and fine materials—try Oxydol. No longer need you spend extra time washing lingerie because you're afraid to use the same soap that whisks dirt out of sheets!

Women know now that rich suds are what do the extra work for them—that suds are the secret of all easy washing.

The New Oxydol's as mild as May—as kind to hands as it is to dainty things—yet it takes dirt out faster than any soap you've ever seen. Because it makes 50% more suds—richer, longer lasting suds that float dirt out and hold it out so clothes are fresh and fragrant—clean smelling suds that don't ball up or leave a scum.

Use it for dishes too. See how quickly those extra suds cut the grease—how easily they rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean—how much work they save you. And remember that Oxydol softens water. Even the softest water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a big package of the New Oxydol. Use enough to make rich suds—it dissolves instantly—and see how it lightens all your household tasks.

CORNED BEEF HASH—2 cups cooked corned beef (chopped), 3 cups cold boiled potatoes (chopped), milk or cream, salt, pepper, minced onion. Combine beef, onions and potatoes. Season and moisten with milk or cream, put into hot skillet, stir well, spread evenly, then place over low heat where it may brown slowly underneath about 40 minutes. Turn onto a hot platter, garnish with the pineapple rings and chopped green peppers. Serve with tartar sauce.

FRUIT PUNCH FOR A CROWD—Two quarts sugar, 1 quart water, 2 quarts tea infusion, 1 quart lemon juice, 1 quart orange juice, 1 quart grape juice, 1 quart grated pineapple, 2¼ gallons iced water, 1 cup strawberry slices, 2 cups orange slices.

Make syrup of sugar and 1 quart water. Make tea infusion by pouring 2 quarts (8 cups) boiling water over 5 tablespoons tea. Cool. Combine syrup, tea, fruit juices and water. Add strawberry slices and orange slices which may be cut in fancy shapes or simply halved or quartered.

Punch may be strained before adding strawberry and orange slices, but this will lessen quantity made. Less water may be used and punch poured over block of ice in punch bowl. When strawberries are out of season the strawberry slices may be replaced by another cup of orange slices. Recipe may be halved or quartered to serve a smaller group. Makes four gallons.

HEARTS EN CASSEROLE—Hearts, either beef, pork or lamb can be deliciously cooked in the casserole.

Wash hearts, remove the veins and arteries. Make stuffing as follows: 1 cup stale bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted fat, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, a few drops onion juice, ¼ cup hot water.

Mix these ingredients and stuff the heart with it. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour, and brown in hot fat. Place in a casserole, half cover with boiling water, cover and bake slowly until tender (about 2 hours). Thicken the liquid in the casserole with flour moistened with a small quantity of cold water. Season this gravy with salt and paprika and serve in the casserole.

IT APPEARS that when [illegible] were speculating [illegible] whether Hal Finney or Bill Brenzel [illegible] the [illegible] catcher for the Pirates this [illegible] the [illegible] has been completely overlooked. Earl Grace

Apart from his clever receiving, Grace has been helping the club not a [illegible] on the offense, as was demonstrated again yesterday by the big part he played in the tenth-inning victory through a [illegible] hit, some heads-up base running and knocking Jimmy Wilson loose from his equipment when the Cardinal catcher attempted his blocking [illegible] at the plate. President John A. Heydler has instructed the National League umpires to be on the lookout for any such attempts to beat the rules. He notifies the arbiters that the pitcher must bring the ball and glove together and pause before throwing to first or pitching to the batter.

THE LEAGUE CHIEF makes some official rulings on disputed points. Here is one that is sometimes the cause of arguments: Runner on first base, three balls called on the batter, runner starts to steal on the next pitch, which proves to be the fourth ball, giving the batter a walk; catcher throws without waiting for the call; after touching second the runner overslides or overruns that base, and backstop's throw catches him before he can return. The ruling is that despite the fact that the batter had walked the runner is out. The base on balls given to the batter entitles the runner on first to advance only as far as second base, not beyond it.

THAT NOTRE DAME'S football teams attract attention to the university's intellectual accomplishments rather than the reverse was the opinion expressed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the institution, at the annual dinner of the Notre Dame Club of New York. "I have found it to be strikingly true," Father O'Donnell said, "that one of the direct results of throwing the spotlight upon Notre Dame's football teams has been to throw the spotlight also upon the institution they represent, and more and more upon its honorable history of 90 years and, indeed, upon many of its intellectual achievements."

FATHER O'DONNELL SPOKE in refutation of opinions expressed by John R. [illegible] He quoted the [illegible] Notre Dame a place of no particular [illegible] has created a great reputation simply [illegible] any of the [illegible].

"The mistake which Mr. Boyd Carpenter makes," Father O'Donnell added, "and he is not alone in this error, is in considering that the new value on intercollegiate athletics, as estimated by the nation's sports writers, represents either the university's estimate of their value or the estimate placed upon them by thinking men in general."

IN THE [illegible] the Boston Nationals [illegible] New York Americans [illegible] their club made a double [illegible] new strength but eliminating [illegible] source of trouble.

Billy Petrolle

[illegible] has been the [illegible] of more [illegible] that [illegible] In fact he was the only member [illegible] Braves [illegible] could get [illegible] the [illegible] all set for a return to the [illegible] contenders next winter.

THE ATTEMPT OF Tony Canzoneri to have Billy Petrolle selected as the next man to meet him for the lightweight championship and to have the time of the bout fixed for May instead of a later date appears to have failed. Canzoneri's idea was to get Petrolle early, when Billy might weaken himself by training hard to make [illegible] pounds, rather than let the bout be put back to the hot months when weight-making is easier. But Petrolle [illegible] Tony's aim and has definitely declined to consider a title match with Canzoneri before June. [illegible] Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston has decided to pass up both Petrolle and Battalino for the first match with Canzoneri, and will give the match to the winner of the return bout between Sammy Fuller and Jack Kid Berg on May 13. The Petrolle-Battalino affair in Chicago in May may be halted by Battalino's inability to get away with a demand that Petrolle make 137 pounds for him.

PANTHERS FACE O. S. U.; SKIBOS AT RESERVE

By JESS CARVER

Pitt and Carnegie Tech are primed and ready to defend the track and field honor of this city, which hasn't been overly great during the past three or four years, against a pair of Ohio rivals tomorrow. The Panthers meet Ohio State in a dual meet here in the Pitt Stadium while Carnegie sends its varsity squad to Cleveland for a clash with Western Reserve.

PITT HOPES HIGH

It is the ambition of the Panthers [illegible] to atone [illegible] at Columbus last year. On that occasion the Bucks walked off [illegible] with a 102-33 [illegible] a much better balanced and generally stronger squad this year, [illegible] the proven ability of Max Morgan, Len Mosheim, [illegible] Watkins, Rob Roy and three or four others, the Panthers have a fine opportunity to give [illegible] a [illegible].

The Buckeyes, however, have a powerful squad. Two of the leading hurdlers in the country, Jack Keller and Capt. Johnny Black, are included among the Scarlet and Gray performers. Fawks and [illegible] sprints [illegible] Clyde Beery [illegible] of the hammer and [illegible] who has heaved [illegible] feet [illegible] are other men who [illegible] give Pitt's best a workout tomorrow afternoon.

The weights event will start at 1:30 o'clock, a half hour ahead of the track events, in order to clear the way for the football game scheduled for 3 o'clock.

TECH MEETS RESERVE

Carnegie demonstrated no little strength in defeating the small [illegible] and accomplished P. A. A. team last week and Coach [illegible] Halferty expects his young men [illegible] a few [illegible] Reserve tomorrow. The Tartans will depart for the Ohio [illegible] in the morning.

Bethany May Abolish Intercollegiate Sports

BETHANY, W. Va., April 22.—(AP)—Bethany College officials will know today whether students favor abolition of intercollegiate athletics.

A vote was taken yesterday on the students' council resolution to do away with inter-school competition.

The resolution was said by student leaders to be the outgrowth of dissatisfaction over the mediocre showing of Bethany College athletic [illegible] the past [illegible] years. Sponsors of the plan pointed out that the school has won but one football game in two seasons.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY. AN INDESTRUCTIBLE LOSS-PROOF WATCH—In 1930, Wallace William, of Charlotte, N. C., riding in an open cock-pit plane over the city, accidentally dropped his wrist watch at an altitude of about 2,000 feet. Upon the completion of the ride the passenger went home to explain his negligence and the loss of his watch to friend wife. But, as he entered the front yard of his home, he beheld his watch, strap and all, lying intact under a tree. The crystal was unbroken, and, what is even more remarkable, the timepiece was still running. This almost unbelievable occurrence has come to me well authenticated and supported by proof. A 1½-MILE RACE WITH A BROKEN LEG—After Earl Labertew ran 1½ miles with a broken leg in a 2-mile race at Lincoln, Neb., November 21, 1930, the broken leg was X-rayed and a clean fracture of the large bone was ascertained. Fortunately, the ends of the bone did not separate, or the damage might have proved irreparable. Labertew became aware of an excruciating pain at the half-mile mark without realizing what had happened. He finished tenth in the race and gave a demonstration of Spartan grit and determination.

A. M. A. CHAMPS SET RECORDS

Two A. M. A. swim champions were crowned last night and two new records established in the Homestead Library Club pool.

Lenore Kight, of the home club, won the A. M. A. 500-yard free-style event in 6:30 2-5, shattering her own former record of 7:04. Louise Clark, also of Homestead Library, was second and Mar Culnell, of the Keystone A. C., third.

Russ Lindberg, of Pitt and the Homestead Library, captured the A. M. A. 200-yard free-style in 2:23 3-5. His time bettered the old mark set by Jack Hanna, of Pitt, which was 2:25 2-5. Pete Choko, of Kennywood Park A. C., finished second and Hanna came in third.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Just when the local matchmakers have almost despaired of getting their fingers on a good drawing card, it appears their prayers have been answered, right out of a clear sky, with the arrival in town of Ray Tramblie, Rockford (Ill.) middleweight with a punch . . . Tramblie and his manager, Ed Willard, of Chicago, drove into Pittsburgh in time to take in the bouts at the Moose Temple Wednesday night and yesterday they were huddled with Jules Beck, matchmaker of Motor Square Garden, with a view to being booked for a battle with any 160-pounder in the business . . .

Ray Tramblie

As a result, it is possible that Ray will be a principal in the windup of the reopening show in the East End arena on Monday or Tuesday evening, a week after the food show gets out of the building . . . He may be paired with Ben Jeby, of New York, who registered well with the local fans in his one appearance here.

Tramblie first began to attract attention among Pittsburghers when it was reported several times that Buck McTiernan was matched to box him in Indianapolis . . . These bouts did not come off, but meanwhile Ray was knocking out boxers whose names were well known at the rate of about one a week not only in the Middle West but also on a trip to Florida . . . He numbers among the men he has beaten Clyde Chastain, Johnny Pilc, Russ Rowsey, Johnny Burns, Sammy Slaughter, Del Fontaine, Gary Leach, Willie Oster and Joe McGowan . . . He is a Scotch-Irishman just past 22.

The mid-Westerner, who does not appear to be more than a welterweight when dressed in street clothes, began fighting as a sparring partner of Sammy Mandell when the latter was the lightweight champion of the world . . . In two years he engaged in some 75 simon-pure battles and climaxed his career as an amateur by reaching the final round of the national senior tournament in Boston, where he lost on a foul to Ray Lopez in the 160-pound class, although he scaled only 152 pounds at the time . . . His professional record since then speaks for itself . . . Ray features a left hook to the body and head in his attack and has scored most of his knockouts with this blow, although he stopped Chastain, a rugged fellow, with a right to the jaw.

Knute Andersson, believe it or not, is the name of one of the members of the Springfield College track team for this year, making up a strange combination of the names of the late Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, and his successor, Hunk Anderson . . . Some one asked Pie Traynor, captain of the Pirates, if he was from Ireland, and Pie jokingly answered that he was . . . "What part of Ireland are you from?" was the next query . . . "Catalina Ireland," was Pie's retort, as he ducked.—HARRY KECK.

MANOS TO SEEK A. A. U. TITLE

NEW YORK, April 22.—(INS)—Forty-three of the leading handball players of the United States will gather in New York today and tomorrow to compete in the National A. A. U. handball championships, singles and doubles, which will get under way Sunday afternoon at the new athletic club.

A. champion, are the favorites to annex the singles title held by Al Banuet, of San Francisco. Banuet will not defend his crown as he has decided to take up professional boxing.

Some of the other contenders for the national titles are: John R. Walsh, Tampa A. C.; Hobelman, Baltimore; Theos Manos, Pittsburgh; John J. Flannelly, Philadelphia; Roy Moers, Detroit; Warden Hall, Baltimore.

BUCCO HOLDOUT RULED OUT BY HEYDLER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Henry "Heinie" Meine, ace of the Pirate slab staff of last season, but the most persistent holdout in the major leagues this year, today was placed on the ineligible list of the Pittsburgh club. The suspension of the dissenting mound star was automatic, the rules of procedure specifying that all players must be signed at the expiration of 10 days from the start of the playing season. The pitcher, therefore, is barred from performing in organized baseball until he has been officially reinstated.

President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh club today stated he had notification from President John A. Heydler of the National League that unless Heydler had a report of Meine's signing by this morning he would promulgate the official ineligibility of the Pittsburgh pitcher. There being no scratch of a pen of any sort from Meine at the Pirate headquarters today, Benswanger had no word to send Heydler, so the league's chief executive probably will place the hurler on the official blacklist before the day is over.

DEMANDED INCREASE

Meine has steadfastly demanded an increase over his 1931 wages of more than 50 per cent. After a series of conferences between the pitcher and his managers the club is reported to have offered him a boost which amounts to almost 40 per cent. Benswanger's last [illegible] with the athlete resulted in the issuance of an ultimatum by the club president. The [illegible] of the club informed Heinie that the figure would not be boosted again. Meine, it is reliably reported, seeks a sum over $12,000. The club has offered him a document "with five figures."

Lloyd Waner's double to left with two out in the tenth and Earl Grace on second gave the Pirates a 7-to-6 victory over the Cardinals yesterday at Forbes Field. The defeat was the sixth straight setback sustained by the proud world champions.

GRACE SCORES IN TENTH

Grace tallied in a striking manner. Brother Lloyd's smack was fielded quickly by Jim Collins, Chick Hafey's successor, who whipped the ball to Catcher Wilson, who planted himself in the path of Grace before the ball reached Jimmy. Grace had to bowl over the Redbird catcher to score. He did this in a forceful manner.

Bill Harris had a five-run lead as he entered the eighth round, but he collapsed in this inning, and Erv Brame rushed to the scene. Brame put the tying run on the sacks in the ninth with none out when Larry French took up the slab burden. Larry's failure to cover first on Adams' grounder to Suhr nearly spilled the beans, but the aggressive left-hander took a fresh hold. He made Bottomley pop out with Sparky on third with one out and the score tied. In the same inning he smacked down Pepper Martin with the bases loaded, two out and the battle at a drawn stage.

Harris may have weakened himself in the seventh when he fanned three Redbirds. The last strike-out brought about the ejection from the field of Outfielder Ray Blades. Ray protested the calling of the third strike.

L. WANER ENDS GAME

Grace put the winning marker on the runways with one out in the tenth. Earl pulled a single to right and when Outfielder Pepper fumbled he continued to second. He was still at the midway post with two out when L. Waner carved out his winning hit.

Paul Derringer opposed Harris for seven rounds. After pitching three runless frames Big Paul saw the Buccos solve him successfully in the next four innings. Six runs went over before the eighth and Hurler Dean arrived. Benny Frey was pitching for the Redbirds when the battle ended. The home hitters rang up 17 of the 31 hits that dotted the battle.

Gus Suhr rang up his ninth straight game of successful hitting. He hung a mighty triple on the leftfield fence and just missed a homer to the right stands. The ball carried to the deepest part of right field where Watkins made a leaping catch as he scraped the wall.

MEINE SATISFIED

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—(AP)—Informed that President John Heydler, of the National League, intended placing him on the "retired list" if he did not sign a Pittsburgh contract today, Heine Meine, a star with the Pirates last year, announced:

"That's alright with me."

Meine, at his home here, said he contemplated taking no particular action at this time.

KOENIG RELEASED

DETROIT, April 22.—(AP)—The Detroit Tiger management has announced release of Mark Koenig, veteran infielder and part time pitcher, to Toronto of the International League. Koenig, who came to the Tigers [illegible] in the 1930 season from the New York Yankees in the same deal which brought Waite Hoyt, will join Toronto probably tomorrow in Baltimore.

NEW STARS GIVE BRAVES NEEDED PUNCH

DETROIT GAINS LEAD; RED SOX TRIP NATS

Associated Press.

The Boston Braves, who couldn't hit the size of their collective hats last season, apparently have found a much needed punch in their two prize young infielders, Art Shires and Bill Urbanski.

The Great Shires is proving he is a first baseman, and Urbanski looks like a real star at short.

With the veteran Rabbit Maranville to balance things at second base, they have made a smart combination and have had much to do with planting the Braves out in front of the National League race at this stage. Both Shires and Urbanski were hitting at a .370 clip through yesterday.

Fritz Knothe, another rookie whom Manager Bill McKechnie has installed at third, hasn't shown any indication he will burn up the league at bat, but his fielding has been first rate.

BRAVES BEAT ROBINS

Between them Shires and Urbanski accounted for four runs to help beat Brooklyn, 6 to 3, before yesterday's opening crowd of 20,000 at Boston.

The day's best individual feat was witnessed at Philadelphia, where Bill Terry, of the Giants, slapped his fifth home run in three days to tie the major league record and provide a 5-to-4 victory over the Phillies.

The Chicago Cubs collected only four blows off Si Johnson, but two walks, a sacrifice, an error and Bill Herman's single scored two runs in the eighth and gave them a 3-to-2 win over Cincinnati.

The last-place St. Louis Cardinals took it on the chin again at Pittsburgh, this time by a score of 7 to 6 in 10 innings.

Mickey Cochrane's ninth inning home run with the bases loaded was the blow that sank the Yankees, 8 to 6, in the American League's main attraction.

TIGERS TAKE LEAD

Detroit's surprising Tigers took over first place all by themselves by defeating Cleveland, 5 to 3, while the Washington Senators were dropping a tight one to Boston, 1 to 0.

Oliver's double and McManus' single after two were out in the seventh provided the Red Sox with the run that sank the Senators. It was a tough loss for Alvin Crowder, who allowed only four hits. The losers collected 10 hits off Jack Russell.

WINNING RUN . . . . GRACE SCORES ON L. WANER'S DOUBLE

Two most tense moments as Pirates won their second straight from the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals at Forbes Field yesterday, 7-6, in 10 innings. Catcher Jimmy Wilson was bumped out of the play and lost possession of the ball (arrow) as Catcher Grace, of the Pirates, came dashing home and reaching for the plate on L. Waner's double to left to end the battle. Pictures are by D. E. Benjamin, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph photographer.

EDGEWOOD SET FOR SEASON

By TOM BIRKS

Despite the fact that many of last season's championship team have departed for other fields, Manager Wally Pickett, of the Edgewood team, Greater Pittsburgh League champion, does not appear to be worrying very much over the race about to get under way.

It is evident that Barnum, one of his outstanding stars last year, will be back with the club despite rumors that the all-round star was to be seen in new fields. Pickett is going to have Barnum as first string catcher for the coming campaign, which may mean that Cunningham is to pass on.

Pickett always seems to have a good pitching staff. Laughlin, Rosemyer, big Nick Kliskey, former Scott High star, and Henderson will bear the brunt of the offensive burden. This quartet compares very favorably with the staff of other years.

Barnett will cover first, Bantley second, with Farrell, Beggs, McCarter, Tinta and Wallace fighting it out for the third base and short field jobs. In the outfield Getz, Jackson, McKelvey and Stewart will share the work.

In the above lineup will be six new men. The opening game will be with the Homestead Grays tomorrow afternoon.

The City League moguls met and worked out a schedule, together with the umpire and ball question. An official ball was selected.

It was decided to open league play Monday, May 9.

Derby Candidates In Fast Workouts

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 22.—(AP)—Shandon Farm's Derby candidate Burning Blaze, which reeled off a 1.40 1-5 miles a few days ago, worked out well today in a three-eighths mile dash over a muddy track in :35 3-5.

Burning Blaze accomplished the :35 3-5 times despite the mud and despite the fact he stumbled as he sped out of the starting chute. He covered the quarter-mile distance in :23 4-5.

Prince Hotspur, nominated for the Derby by the late Joseph Leiter, of Chicago, was the only other Derby candidate given a workout, moving the mile in 1.46 1-5 through the mud at the rate of :26 1-5 quarter, :39 2-5 three-eighths, :52 2-5 half, and 1.19 three-quarters.

He won the Greater Pittsburgh featherweight championship last year and has added the Western Pennsylvania and A. M. A. titles this year. He has stopped six of his last eight opponents.

NET ACES FACE TESTS TODAY

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 22.—(AP)—More than just the right to enter the final round of the annual Mason and Dixon tennis singles championship may hinge today upon the outcome of a semi-final round match between Frank Shields of New York and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex.

They may be fighting as well for the No. 2 singles berth on the American Davis Cup team which faces Canada at Washington next week.

When the team of four—Allison, Shields, Ellsworth Vines and John Van Ryn—originally was named it was planned to play Shields and Vines in singles and Van Ryn and Allison in doubles.

But Allison's sensational play in southern tournaments this spring may well have made Davis Cup officials ponder the advisability of playing the blonde Texan in singles as well as doubles.

Vines, the No. 1 Davis Cup singles player by virtue of his national championship, also has reached the semi-finals of the Mason and Dixon competition and is matched against Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of New York, today. McCauliff upset Van Ryn in the quarter-finals but seems hardly likely to beat Vines, especially since the tall Californian seems to be rounding into form.

LOCAL GOLFERS SET TENTATIVE LINKS DATES

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Western Pennsylvania Golf Association held its annual meeting last night in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. In spite of the fact only a meager handful of representatives turned out, for which the depression might be blamed, it was one of the most interesting sessions in several years.

James Roy (Rex) Dunn, Oakmont lawyer, who saw his football days at Geneva, Wooster and Princeton, was elevated to the presidency. Robert W. Smith, Greensburg attorney, was made vice president. George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, was made secretary, and James W. Barber, of Alcoma, again was named treasurer.

TWO PLEAS MADE

The outstanding topics of the meeting were the plea of Charles Yon, of Montour Heights, former president, for the clubs to consider the serious business in front of them and to assist as much as possible the golfer who has been forced from the private club ranks, and the splendid talk of Edward E. McCoy, of Longue Vue, chairman of the caddie welfare committee, who urged clubs to give the caddie all that was coming to him, regardless of a slash in expenses in other parts of the clubs.

Richard C. Long, of Oakmont, paid high tribute to the late Eben M. Byers, of Allegheny, and those present stood in silence for a minute in his honor.

No definite tournament dates were allotted, the tentative dates being placed in the hands of the executive committee for final decision. The tourney dates as offered follow:

May 25, opening team matches; June 6, National Open championship qualifying round at Oakmont; June 13-14, Oakland Beach Hotel, Conneaut Lake, open tourney; June 21, Western Pennsylvania seniors championship; June 29, West Penn fathers and sons championship; week of July 11, Pennsylvania State open and amateur championships; July 18, intercity team tourney, with teams from Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo and Pittsburgh competing for $1,500 in prizes; July 20-22, West Penn junior championship, South Hills; July 27, final round of West Penn team championship at Westmoreland; July 31, amateur-pro tourney; August 3-6, Bedford Springs amateur invitation tourney; August 16, National amateur sectional qualifying round at Oakmont; August 22, West Penn open championship; August 24-26, West Penn amateur championship; August 29, West Penn caddie team championship.

RIIS SEEKS AFFILIATION

Director Paul B. Riis, of the Allegheny County parks, asked for a membership or some sort of affiliation with the W. P. G. A., which was referred to the executive committee, while the request of John Jay Burke, representing public links golfers, for the association to sponsor county tournaments for men and women, in which private and public linksmen would compete, was turned down.

Talks were made by Uncle John W. Carr, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, who spoke eloquently of William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont; Chester H. Lehman, of Westmoreland; Thomas S. Jamison, of Hannastown; Yon; John Graham, of South Hills and Oakmont; Fred B. Weppner, of Stanton Heights; E. A. Eisenbeis and Mr. Duncan, of Edgewood; Homer Burchinal, of Uniontown; Ken Witherow, public links commissioner, and others.

Retiring President Harmer D. Denny, Jr., of Fox Chapel, and Treasurer Barber were unable to be present. It was the first meeting Barber has missed in 21 years.

Nick Altrock
Baseball's Humorist
Says:

WASHINGTON, April 22.—As Babe Ruth says, everything happens in Boston except a pennant. It was tough for the Bambino to get laid low after such a swell start, but in that town during springtime you always can catch the grip in wardrobe trunk sizes. That's why you usually see the Boston Red Sox down around zero in the league standing.

Nick Altrock

This spring a cold wave froze the brass buttons off Gen. Grant's statue on Boston Common and iceberg lettuce is all they could grow in the Public Gardens.

There ought to be a law against playing baseball north of the Mason-Dixon line until May. And, so far as the Red Sox are concerned, there is.

Mt. Lebanon defeated University School yesterday, 5-0, the South Hills performers exhibiting a world of class. Arnold School, performing on its home courts, had little difficulty in turning back Shady Side Academy, 4-1, and the Allderdice squad landed a shutout win over Schenley.

Things Public Are Exercised Over Nowadays

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

NEVER IN my 28 years experience have the people of this country manifested such active—or bitter—interest in events. Never have they been more critical. Never have they been so moved to express their opinions. Upon what subjects do readers of this column most frequently write? Briefly:

1—The issuance of unprecedented billions of new stocks by bankers and industrialists during the boom.

2—The failure of the issuers of such securities to institute effective action to protect in any way those who invested their savings in them.

3—The multiplying evidence that many insiders have done their worst to scuttle their own ships by dumping most or all of their holdings on the public, thus aggravating demoralization.

4. The ruthlessness, as they call it, of bankers and other institutional creditors in exacting their pound of flesh at a time when the dollar is worth so very much more than it was worth when obligations were incurred.

5. Short selling.

6. The shilly-shallying by Congress on taxation and retrenchment.

7. The long lack of constructive leadership by President Hoover and the administration.

8. The ineffectiveness of the Farm Relief Board.

9. Unemployment.

10. Drastic prohibition modification.

LACK OF leadership begets dictatorship.

ONE READER complains that America's gold standard has turned out to be yellow in that:

"We have seen millions of our people become destitute in a land of plenty and have seen values shrink to the vanishing point. All standards should be set up for man's convenience and benefit, and not for his destruction."

He adds that our so-called leaders have proved even yellower than gold.

SENATOR WALCOTT is totally wrong when he says the newspapers would not be interested in printing the names of large-scale short-sellers. This is one point on which the public is extremely eager to have the fullest information. One reader expresses widespread public feeling in this telegram to senators:

"Short-selling by individuals and corporations 'against the box' because of inside information which was not available to the general public, has become a public scandal. It is time our country should be acquainted with the facts, because this seepage of security values places people in the terrible position of not knowing where they stand. It is scandalous that Senator Walcott should back down on his quest."

JAMES A. FARRELL, retiring United States Steel Corporation president, at a testimonial dinner, said:

"If I were asked to name the factors essential to business success I would emphasize the importance of friendship. Out of a long experience I have found no substitute for friendship as a lubricant of the ways down which we launch our business enterprises. No industry can be truly efficient which does not provide throughout all its activities an atmosphere of friendliness."

Next to friendship in his success recipe, he placed experience. He also emphasized "concentration of the immediate task" and "infinite capacity for taking pains." He declared:

"I can see no grounds for despondency regarding the future."

His farewell words were:

"There lurks a godlike impulse in the world, and men are greater than they idly dream."

WOULDN'T IT be a glorious joke if the small investors who have been buying bonds and stocks at slaughtered prices reap better profits than the big fellows who, like badly scared rabbits, have been selling right and left?

Receivers Named For Cuban Cane

WILMINGTON, Del., April 22.—(AP)—Charles B. Evans of Wilmington, Charles Hayden and George Roosevelt, of New York, were appointed receivers of the Cuban Cane Products Company, Inc., by Judge John P. Nields in United States District Court yesterday.

The appointment followed the filing of a receivership suit against the company by the Victor G. Mendoza Company, a Cuban corporation, and an answer in which the Cane Products Company admitted the averments and consented to the appointment of receivers.

MOB HYSTERIA CHECK SEEN IN ADVERTISING

Public Frame of Mind Held Open to Change if Right Kind of Appeal Were Made

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service

NEW YORK, April 22.—Recent events have demonstrated the wisdom of the recommendation by Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of Columbia University, to the effect that advertising can play a new role as a check against mob hysteria.

Mr. Rukeyser

It was suggested that whole industries get together co-operatively and tell the public why it is mutually advantageous to keep normal economic processes going instead of standing by and thus condemning millions of workers to idleness.

Failure to take Mr. Ackerman's advice has resulted in progressive deterioration of the business structure. The weakness of securities has followed the failure of business curves to show the normal spring seasonal advance.

Touching on this theme, Kenneth Collins, executive vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., in his new book, "The Road to Good Advertising," points out:

"We have an overabundance of goods. On the other hand, we have a massive reservoir of inactive consumer purchasing ability in our banks. Between the two lies a frame of mind. That frame of mind is, without qualification, advertising's responsibility. Advertising could easily change that frame of mind, but we who write advertising have written the wrong kind."

LOANS EXPAND $19,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting federal reserve member banks in New York City increased $19,000,000 during the week ended April 20 to $504,000,000. This compares with $485,000,000 in the preceding week, which was the record low, and the high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

Credit Corporation 1932 Revenue Cut

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—The Railroad Credit Corporation will have an estimated gross revenue of $60,000,000 this year against an original estimate of $100,000,000 to $125,000,000, E. G. Buckland, president of the corporation, said today.

It was stated by Mr. Buckland that in spite of the lower estimate of revenue "no unfavorable developments are expected in the near future as far as the corporation is concerned, that is, in the province of meeting interest charges."

RESERVE'S BOND HOLDINGS UP

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—Action of the Federal Reserve Board in urging Federal Reserve banks to buy government securities was reflected today in the weekly statement of the board which showed that the banks had increased their holdings of securities by $93,000,000. Their holdings on April 20 were $1,078,000,000.

The increase pushed the total amount to $479,000,000 more than the banks held on the same day a year ago. The board reported that Reserve Bank credit amounted to $1,700,000,000, an increase of $14,000,000 for the week.

The monetary gold stock of the nation slumped away slightly, dropping $3,000,000 to $4,377,000,000 while money in circulation increased $2,000,000 to $5,425,000,000.

N. Y. BANK RATE UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement concerning any change in the rediscount rate of 3 per cent.

It was expected yesterday in financial quarters that the bank might lower its rate in view of the recent trend of developments in the credit situation which tended to forecast a lower rate in this district.

These included the several reductions in rates on bankers' acceptances within the past few weeks, the more aggressive policy of the Federal Reserve System toward expanding credit through increased open market purchases of United States government securities, and the reduction in the Bank of England discount rate to 3 per cent from 3½ per cent.

Ask Receivers for More Insull Units

CHICAGO, April 22.—(INS.)—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against three Insull organizations were on file in United States District Court here today.

They are the United Public Service Company of New Jersey and its subsidiaries, the Southern United Gas Company and the United Public Utilities Company. All already are in equity receivership in Federal Court.

Although not incorporated until 1924, R. Hoe & Co. has been doing business for 113 years. It was founded by Richard Hoe.

Cigaret Production Falls During March

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Production of cigarets during March totaled 8,446,987,851, compared with 9,802,400,017 in March, 1931, according to the Internal Revenue Bureau. Large cigars totaled 355,282,130, against 440,472,410; small cigars, 20,826,480, against 33,256,507; manufactured tobacco, 27,988,941 pounds, compared with 27,551,563, and snuff, 3,455,166 pounds, against 3,497,016 a year ago.

Names Receivers For R. Hoe & Co.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Irving Trust Company and Henry R. Swartz have been appointed joint equity receivers for R. Hoe & Co., Inc., manufacturers of printing presses, by Federal Judge Coleman, on a petition filed by Kenneth A. Christian, a stockholder.

Liabilities total more than $7,000,000 and assets are listed at $11,926,134.

Reserve Report Shows Continuance of Credit Expansion Policy

Weekly condition reports show the Reserve persisted in its aggressive credit expansion operations during the period, the system's holdings of government bonds increasing by $93,000,000. The combined report indicated the bulk of such additional credit was used by member banks to cut its indebtedness, the figures showing a further reduction of $64,000,000 in borrowings from regional institutions. The real force of the Reserve drive to halt credit deflation is having its effect in the New York district, as shown in the consolidated report of member banks there. Loans and investments of these institutions expanded $148,000,000, reflecting gains of $54,000,000 in holdings of government bonds, $30,000,000 in other investments, a rise of $47,000,000 in "other loans" and a gain of $17,000,000 in security loans.

While earnings for the first quarter of this year were unsatisfactory, Edward J. Cornish, president of the National Lead Company, told stockholders at the annual meeting of the company that income from other sources was more than sufficient to meet common and preferred dividends in that period. Mr. Cornish further said that he could not imagine any condition arising which would "cause directors to destroy the good will of investors by not paying the regular preferred dividends."

American exports will be vitally affected by the new British tariff, although to what extent in dollars it has not yet been determined. Commerce Department experts were studying cable reports of the higher rates today in an effort to determine the probable reduction of exports to this country's best foreign customer. Included in the list of items affected will be machinery and machine tools, canned vegetables, metal furniture, some classes of toilet preparations and electrical goods.

Interest in the outcome of Pennsylvania's dividend meeting slated for next Wednesday is quite as widespread as in the Steel meeting which will be held the day previous. The current market level of the stock would seem to support the more or less widely held theory that an adjustment will be in order. The majority opinion is that a cut will be ordered to the equivalent of a $1 annual basis, but some people usually well informed would not be surprised if directors decided to maintain the current $2 basis.

Sir Henri Deterding said that weakness of Royal Dutch Shell stock on the Paris Bourse yesterday was caused by persistent efforts of Soviet Russian oil interests to smash the company, which he heads, and capture the world market. He issued a statement in which he said the Soviet interests were operating through a syndicate of "bear" traders in Paris. The Dutch Shell group, his statement declared, was absolutely sound and healthy, as its forthcoming report would show. The slump in Royal Dutch Shell stock had been ascribed by brokers in Paris to Wednesday's drop in Wall street. London brokers attributed the decline to doubts about declaration of a dividend.

The stock market appeared to suffer in no small way from pure lack of interest in the course of the day. The speculative fraternity, it might be said, spent considerably more of its time in hanging over the "broad tape" tickers than it did in seeking to follow the ebb and flow of prices on the stock tape. The reason for the diversion of attention to the Washington wires was not difficult to find. The "pedigreed" bears, as traders now appearing before the Senate committee have been dubbed, were actually under direct inquiry and shedding some light on market conditions of the last few months.

Total Fire Loss Higher for March

HARTFORD, April 22.—Fire losses in the United States in March amounted to $49,189,124, against $42,964,392 in March, 1931, an increase of 14.5 per cent, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Total fire loss for the first quarter was $128,238,529, against $128,515,367 for the like 1931 period.

Short Interest Expands on Curb

NEW YORK, April 22.—The New York Curb Exchange short interest as of April 15 amounted to 83,550 shares, compared with 67,813 shares on March 31.

STOCK PRICES SKID TO NEW MINIMUMS

Declines of 2 to 3 Carry U. S. Steel, Can, Case and Others to Low Levels

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP.)—A fresh relapse in the stock market virtually cancelled the recovery of the previous session during the earlier trading today, but the list steadied after midday.

Selling was in meager volume in the early trading, but the list dropped abruptly. With professionals apparently cowed by the Washington investigation, and the public almost completely on the sidelines, the market was a thin affair.

Declines of 2 to 3 points carried such issues as United States Steel, American Can, Standard of New Jersey, Air Reduction and Case to new lows for the bear market. American Telephone, Union Pacific and Norfolk and Western lost about 4 points, and issues off 2 to 3 at the lowest included Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, Eastman, Allied Chemical, Coca Cola, American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B" and others. Pressure subsided by early afternoon, however, and recoveries of from fractions to a point were numerous.

Wall street was somewhat encouraged by the weekly bank statements showing further results from the credit expansion program. The fact that the expected reduction in the New York rediscount rate failed to materialize, however, while not regarded as important in banking quarters, may have prompted some quick profit-taking. Furthermore, the slight gain of $2,000,000 in currency in circulation was regarded as indicating some fresh tendency toward hoarding in certain localities, which made speculators for the rise cautious.

The most encouraging aspect of the bank statements was the gain of $47,000,000 in all other or commercial loans shown by the New York member banks. This is the first increase in commercial loans in some weeks and some observers thought it was the first indication that the efforts of the Reserve authorities to induce a more liberal lending policy was actually taking effect.

Wall street was somewhat uneasy over the approach of next Tuesday's dividend action on United States Steel, and forecasts that the 50-cent quarterly payment on the common would be omitted were widely circulated. That statement of James A. Farrell, retiring president of the corporation, that "we have only scratched the surface of trade possibilities in the world" gave fresh hope for the more distant future. Mr. Farrell is described by his associates as a man who knows each harbor where steel can be landed and who lives there that might buy it. The monthly report of cigaret production, showing a substantial drop, may have influenced some selling of the tobaccos.

COTTON REACTS, STEADIES

NEW YORK, April 22.—Cotton opened today at an advance of 4 to 7 points on trade and commission house buying. July sold at 6.33c. Active months later reacted within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations, but offerings were well enough taken on the setback to give the market a steady undertone at the end of the first half hour.

Trading was comparatively quiet later in the morning, but prices worked gradually lower under small offerings which appeared to be influenced by the action of the stock market. By midday July was selling around 6.25, and October 6.50, with the general list ruling about 1 to 3 points net lower. May liquidation continued with considerable switching from that month to later deliveries. Next Tuesday will be the first May notice day in the local market.

Electric President Sees Improvement

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—Industrial conditions throughout the country are showing a slow but steady improvement, Frank A. Merrick, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, said here. Slight additional upturn, perhaps 10 or 15 per cent, he said, would place a great many companies on a profitable basis.

LOCAL MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

Absence of Pressure on Fuels and Industrials Interpreted Favorably

There was no change in the volume of trading and only the smallest fluctuations in prices on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Traders interpreted the continued dullness of the market from the favorable angle on the assumption that necessitous selling induced by the early April decline had been cleaned up and the list pretty thoroughly purged of weak accounts.

Of course a further wide decline could easily cause further impairment of [illegible], but the resistance shown to the decline the past few days has given rise to hope that [illegible] are flattening out in the present area preparatory to a period of narrow and more or less standardized fluctuations.

The local list showed no important changes from the levels prevailing earlier in the week. Industrials were [illegible] and most quotations in that division were nominal.

WHEAT PRICES TAKE DIP

CHICAGO, April 22.—Reflecting bearish action of securities, grain values dropped early today. Prospects of showers in domestic winter wheat territory gave additional [illegible] to the selling side. Opening [illegible] lower, wheat continued to sag. Corn started at [illegible] decline to [illegible] advance and subsequently receded all around.

Setbacks of wheat prices were in the face of reports that the remaining wheat surplus in the southern hemisphere amounted to only 131,000,000 bushels against 206,000,000 bushels at this time last year. Bulls contended that this decrease of 75,000,000 bushels, coupled with a decrease acreage and a low winter wheat prospect in the United States, suggested a possibility of a breadstuff scarcity during the present crop year.

Lack of buying support for the wheat market, however, became increasingly apparent. At one stage the market dropped to more than 1½ cents under yesterday's finish before steadying as a result of purchase orders from eastern sources. The down swing at this time carried the market to about 6 cents under prices current a week ago.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.

Glass Bill Would Put Banks Out of Business Of Underwriting Bonds

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A CONCERTED ATTEMPT to force the banks of this country out of the business of underwriting and distributing investment securities is being made by the framers of the new Glass banking bill now before the Senate.

The bill in its revised form would definitely forbid national banks from underwriting investment securities or from making commitments for the purchase of securities for their own accounts when the ultimate purpose is their sale to the public. The measure goes a step further and would forbid any member bank of the Federal Reserve System, whether under a state or national charter, from being affiliated with a company engaged in the securities business.

Several factors undoubtedly have been influential in placing these restrictions in the bill and, in all probability, it is this feature which is responsible for many of the objections to the measure coming from banking sources.

Offers Excessive Risks To Bank Organizations

THE BARS PROPOSED against bank participation in the securities business probably reflect a belief that banks are taking business risks in underwriting operations which might imperil the safety of their regular depositors.

A further factor has been a growing belief that a bank engaged in selling securities is likely to be tempted to put its own slow moving offerings into trust funds managed by itself and by affiliated banking organizations. The judgment of the officers of city banks in giving investment advice to small country correspondent banks might be influenced by a desire to place their own issues.

A few years ago the banks were rapidly taking the place of the independent firms engaged in marketing securities. Many bond men were of the opinion that the days of the independent houses were numbered. In the past two years, however, with the security business in bad shape, there has been a tendency for banks to get out of this type of activity and to leave the field to organizations specializing in underwriting.

Bill Covers Wide Range of Activity

THE GLASS BILL would not prevent banks from buying securities for their own investment accounts beyond placing restrictions on the proportion of any issue which may be taken. Where banks already have affiliates in the securities business it would provide a period of three years for them to get rid of these connections. Not only would the bill forbid banks from controlling security affiliates but it also would prevent holding companies of banks from controlling security companies. In addition it would establish a bar against banks distributing stock of their security affiliates to their own stockholders and then making the subsequent transfer or sale of one contingent on the transfer of the other.

Other important features of the Glass bill will be discussed in this column tomorrow.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

Maid Gives Investigators Information Concerning Lola's Affairs

CHAPTER XIV

"Have you any suspicions of how the parrot and the dog died?" Colt asked.

"I don't know a thing about it."

"Have you heard any quarrels in this house?"

Even frightened as she was, the girl curled her pinched lips at this question.

"I didn't hear much else. [illegible]"

"Hear any tonight?"

"Sure. I heard them all. I heard Mr. Rowland and Miss Lola having it hot and heavy. And also this afternoon I heard Mrs. Carewe and Miss Christine having it too."

"And what could they be quarreling about?"

"I don't know. I heard Miss Christine say she had to have her money back. And Mrs. Carewe said it wasn't any of her business. And Miss Christine said it would have to be somebody's business. And Mrs. Carewe said to see Lola about it. And Christine said all right, if Lola lived that long. And Mrs. Carewe had hysterics."

"And when did you say this was?"

"Late this afternoon. Miss Lola was out. And Mrs. Carewe had just come home from the show."

GIRLS FEARED ACTOR

Colt looked at the girl with a long glance of appraisal. Somehow she gave the impression of not being entirely frank.

"How did Lola and her mother get on together?" he next inquired.

"Oh, they quarreled and made up all the time. Just like all families. Lola said once that she could easily kill her mother—but she was awful mad then, and that was a long time ago. Of late they seemed a lot closer—I don't know why."

"Do you remember ever hearing Lola Carewe express any fear of any particular person?" asked Dougherty. "Did she, for instance, ever say she was afraid somebody might try to take her life?"

Eunice James wrinkled the freckled whiteness of her forehead. Her eyes brightened.

"Lola and Miss Christine were both scared of one man—she told me so," she disclosed. "He was an actor boy friend of hers—Guy Everett—the fellow who took Miss Christine out tonight."

"But why should they be afraid of Mr. Everett?" pursued Dougherty.

"Miss Christine called him a hpyo — hypo — something or other."

"A hypochondriac?"

"He was always down in the mouth, always tired out," she said; "always holding his hand to his belt and making a face."

"And she actually told you she was afraid of him?"

STARTLING INFORMATION

"Sure. She told me how she and Miss Carewe advised him about some investments. On account of taking her advice he lost all his money. Miss Christine was always afraid he would try to get even with her and Miss Lola."

"How long ago did she discuss that with you?"

"Just the other day."

Here was a startling new angle. Lola Carewe and Christine Quires, her bosom friend, had advised Everett about his investments! Where could such a trail as that lead to? Colt might have followed this up directly, but he was too shrewd a policeman to make such a blunder. Instead he boldly switched the course of his examination.

"Do you know anything about the relations between Dr. Baldwin and Miss Carewe?" asked Dougherty suddenly.

The maid opened her eyes very wide.

"Not much," she temporized. "But I did hear an awful row one night."

"Hear anything that was said?"

"Well—Dr. Baldwin said plenty. He told Miss Lola his life was ruined if she told what they knew."

"You heard that?"

"Oh, yes, sir. I heard it."

"Hear anything else?"

"Not that I remember just now, sir."

"When was this quarrel?"

"About two months ago, I guess."

A knocking was heard at the door. It was one of Flynn's men with the message that Mr. Guy Everett had arrived in company with a detective.

"Show him in at once," directed Thatcher Colt, dismissing the man with a word of thanks. On the threshold she passed the [illegible] who was to be our next witness, and one about whom she had just given us startling information. Was I mistaken or did a glance of understanding pass between them?

Guy Everett was a tall and handsome, middle-aged man with a slightly gray mustache. Outside of the [illegible] here was the last person known to have seen Christine Quires, the friend of the murdered Lola and whose disappearance was already one of the grave and complicating factors in this mystery. Mr. Everett seemed to be in a pitiful mental condition. The man was shaken by intermittent tremors; his bluish lips actually seemed puffed out with fear, and his eyes rolled as if out of gear, their muscles no longer under control.

"Mr. Colt," he burst out passionately, "Why am I not told what has happened? Where is Miss Carewe, or Miss Quires?"

"Mr. Everett," said Thatcher Colt, "how long have you known Lola Carewe?"

"About three years, I suppose—she is an old friend of mine."

"Were you attracted to her?"

"Well, I don't know exactly what you mean by 'being attracted to her.' I saw a bit of her. Has anything happened?"

"Were you fond of her?"

"Well, I took her around a bit, yes."

"There was no love affair?"

"Oh, absolutely and positively not, at all, under any circumstances, no! Nothing of the kind, Mr. Colt. No, sir, no, no! Nothing like that."

"Just friends?"

"Nothing more."

"When did you make this engagement for tonight?"

"Oh, about three weeks ago. I say, you couldn't let me have a spot, could you?"

"A five spot?" asked Flynn, who had taken an instantaneous dislike to this sleek and well-groomed performer.

"A spot of Scotch! I feel absolutely frazzled at all this."

"In this country," Flynn explained heavily, "liquor is against the law."

"What time did you come here tonight?" resumed Colt.

"About 9 o'clock."

"And what time did you leave with Miss Quires?"

"About 9:30."

Synopsis

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher up" of a jewel thief ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe, the butler, maid and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name, Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Basil was a cruel beast and Lola never loved him. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, though the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt 'phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learn Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, reveals that Everett had threatened Lola and that Rowland, the lawyer, warned her she was playing a dangerous game and would be caught. Assistant Chief Inspector Flynn, in charge of the detective force, arrives. A thorough investigation is started.

Now Go On

Everett said he had left with Miss Quires at 9:30 o'clock.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

If you are not a good player of any game don't force yourself in as a partner of a person who really plays well.

In your crowd there are some men vastly superior in skill to your playing in your favorite pastime.

You may have one or two friends who have grown to be experts while you are still a mediocre player.

Of course they like your company; because they feel so friendly they may tolerate you in the games in which they excel.

But this does not indicate that they can get full enjoyment with you as a partner.

There is little fun playing with too easy opponent.

A sincere friendship cannot make up for a partnership in games with one who does not put up a good contest.

A real sportsman likes the thrill of contest with a worthy opponent.

You may be selfish enough to deprive him of this thrill because of your insistence in joining him as a partner.

Even with the handicap method the game is always more interesting that is played with those nearly equal in skill and experience.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping . . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol!

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic; it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Appeals to Madge for Forgiveness

"I know," I said slowly as Lillian emphasized her ability to go to sleep at any moment, and, indeed, I was familiar with this peculiarity. She is like nothing so much as a city fireman in her ability to wake up, work awhile, and then go to sleep again without any apparent injury to her health or faculties. "And if you'll call me at half after five, I shall be very grateful."

"Half after five be it then," she said. "Good-night, and don't get a nightmare over the Dicky-bird. His slamming out of the room doesn't really mean that he's sore. He's just working off steam. He'll snap out of it, you'll see."

I did not share her optimism as I went to my room, undressed and made ready for the sleep which she had advised. I knew better than she or anyone else the strength and tenacity of Dicky's jealousy of Hugh Grantland. It was a feeling which I knew he had tried to conquer because of his deep obligation to Hugh for the signal services he had rendered us, but every little while it proved too strong for him. I remembered more than one unpleasant scene caused by this temper of his.

A knock at my door, Dicky's familiar one, brought a catch to my throat. Had he come to voice to me the resentment concerning the comment of the wounded Chinese messenger which he was too proud to betray before Lillian?

IS NOT ANGERED

"Come in," I said cordially, and felt my nerves relax at the sight of his face. There was no sign of wrath upon it, not even the annoyance to which he undoubtedly was entitled. After all, I imagine almost any husband might take exception to the comment of the Chinese concerning Hugh Grantland's liking for me.

Dicky closed the door and, turning, caught me in his arms.

"Say, you're not angry with your bad, jealous boy," he demanded with his face bent down to mine.

I fibbed magnificently.

"I know of nothing that should make me angry at you, sweetheart," I whispered.

He thrust me out at arm's length and laughed down at me with tender, quizzical eyes.

"You're either an anointed little liar or your eyes are mercifully blinded by love," he said. "I know the stunt I was beginning to stage down in the kitchen when Lil flagged me. I don't know what makes me see red whenever that fellow's name is mentioned, but I do."

He stopped for an instant, then burst out impulsively again.

"No, I'm lying. I do know what makes me hate the very whites of his eyes. To put it in a phrase, he's a better man than I am, Gunga Din, and—"

"He's not!" I interrupted him indignantly.

"Fie, fie, Little One!" he said, smiling down at me, "also pish, pish! and tush, tush, tush!"

PRAISES GRANTLAND

"Naturally, I am very much pleased and flattered by your denial, but the sad truth remains. You see, when the galoots like old Phil Veritzen or that gifted super sleuth, Allen Drake, are cavorting around, I get hot under the collar at their daring to wriggle their eyebrows in your direction, but I'm never really uneasy because I'm conceited enough to believe that in my fashion, Cynara, I can give you a better break and love you more convincingly than either of those boros could in a million years."

He drew a deep breath as I uttered an indignant, "I should think so!" and then hurried on.

"But this lad Grantland is something else again. He has everything that I haven't—oh, I don't mean his money. I wouldn't insult you by intimating that money or its absence enters into your romantic scheme of things at all, but he'd be a better man for you than I would if he and the church mouse were little pals together. He's wise and tender and considerate and balanced. He would not go off his nut every time you smiled at a good-looking man the way I do. He'd have you on a pedestal and be offering incense to you."

"But, Dicky," I said, looking up at him archly, "Who ever wants to be put on a pedestal? I've always thought it must be the most uncomfortable place in the world. I know I should hate it."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Last Saturday at the Harris (downtown) chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club meeting, Manager William C. Pearce had a load of entertainment that the youngsters "ate" up. One of the stunts that Bill had arranged was a milk drinking contest in which six girls fed six boys a bottle of milk from a nursing bottle. This stopped the show, the youngsters enjoyed this more as the bottles became empty and the boys, with the assistance of the girls, tried to get the last mouthful down. Most of them started to laugh and then it was all off. However the boy that won, won by a gulp.

ACT STOPS SHOW

Evelyn Hughs, who has proved so popular with the boys and girls of this chapter, again stopped the show. Evelyn, who is only 13, is one of the finest little actresses that has appeared on any of the stage shows put on each week at these meetings. In fact it is reported that scouts from the big time vaudeville circuits have been watching her work and that a contract might be offered her real soon.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
It Is a City of Churches as Well as of Mills

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1932

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Beware of Slates!

Intelligent Voters Will Ignore Factional Tickets in the Primary Election Next Tuesday.

The campaign is nearing its end. The voters go to the polls next Tuesday to nominate their parties' candidates for the United States Senate, the House of Representatives, State Treasurer, Auditor General, Supreme and Superior Court judgeships, the Legislature, and other offices.

It has been an unusually dull and quiet campaign. This, it is to be hoped, does not portend the absence of a great section of the citizenship from the polls; for important issues are to be settled and it is desirable that the people speak with a full, loud, unmistakable voice.

The major issues that are to come before the Legislature include the regulation of public utilities with a view to securing fair rates, the repeal of our state prohibition law, and the abolition of the Blue Law with its indefensible ban on innocent amusements on Sunday.

The Sun Telegraph has asked all the candidates for the Legislature in Allegheny County how they stand on these matters, and has published their replies or their failure to reply. Those who are unwilling to tell what, if elected, their attitude will be on these important questions are not entitled to the people's consideration.

Several Legislative slates have been put forward by the various factions. There are the so-called "regular Republican organization's" slate and the "Independent Republicans'" slate.

The Sun Telegraph is friendly to the liberals, the progressives, the candidates who are independent of machines and gangs. But it does not recommend voting for the "Independent" or any other slate, as such. Intelligent voters will ignore factional tickets and vote for the candidates on their individual merits.

Gov. Pinchot's indorsement of a candidate cannot be taken as a guarantee of independence from gang politics; for Pinchot himself, by virtually levying an assessment on State employes for campaign expenses, and by allowing selfish political considerations to influence him in removing from office competent officials like Dr. John R. Conover, has adopted the very gang methods that he formerly condemned, and has set up a machine of his own.

The prudent course for the voter to follow, therefore, is to judge the qualifications of the candidates by their manner of facing the issues and their individual records rather than by their sponsors or the slates on which their names appear.

The contest for the three places to be filled on the Superior Court bench is of exceptional interest and importance. A vital principle is involved in the candidacy of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld. The Philadelphia Republican organization dominated by William S. Vare is undertaking to drive him from the bench. In disregard of the tradition that an able jurist should be continued in office, the Vare machine seeks to give Judge Stadtfeld's place to another. The independent Philadelphia Record summed up the situation yesterday as follows:

> "Eastern Pennsylvania recently witnessed the spectacle of a federal judgeship made a political pawn by the Vare organization. It is not a sight calculated to enhance respect for our courts.
> "A similar attempt at political control of the judiciary will be made next Tuesday when the state and city Republican machines will seek to replace Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, with a hand-picked candidate of their own.
> "Judge Stadtfeld's record is an excellent one. He was appointed to the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court bench by Gov. Fisher in 1930 and to the Superior Court last November by Gov. Pinchot.
> "One of the ablest and most respected attorneys in Western Pennsylvania, Judge Stadtfeld received 1,126 votes out of a total of 1,356 ballots cast in a secret referendum held by the Allegheny County Bar Association to determine the best candidate for a court vacancy.
> "His character is attested by the fact that former Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, of the Supreme Court, is in charge of Judge Stadtfeld's campaign in Philadelphia. IN THE RECORD'S OPINION THE RENOMINATION OF STADTFELD IS THE MOST IMPORTANT QUESTION PLACED BEFORE THE VOTERS AT THE COMING REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.
> "The issue is whether our judges are to be picked by political machines or chosen on the basis of character and ability."

The Philadelphia paper's editorial is quoted thus at length not only because it is an accurate picture of the situation that confronts the voters but also as evidence that the Pittsburghers who have been saying these same things have not been unduly influenced by their friendship for a fellow-Pittsburgher.

Another candidate for the Superior Court is Judge William M. Parker of Venango County. Judge Parker's fitness for the bench has been brought into question by his action several years ago in holding in contempt of court an attorney and the executor of an estate who had asked that another judge be assigned to a case in which they were interested, on the ground that Judge Parker was biased.

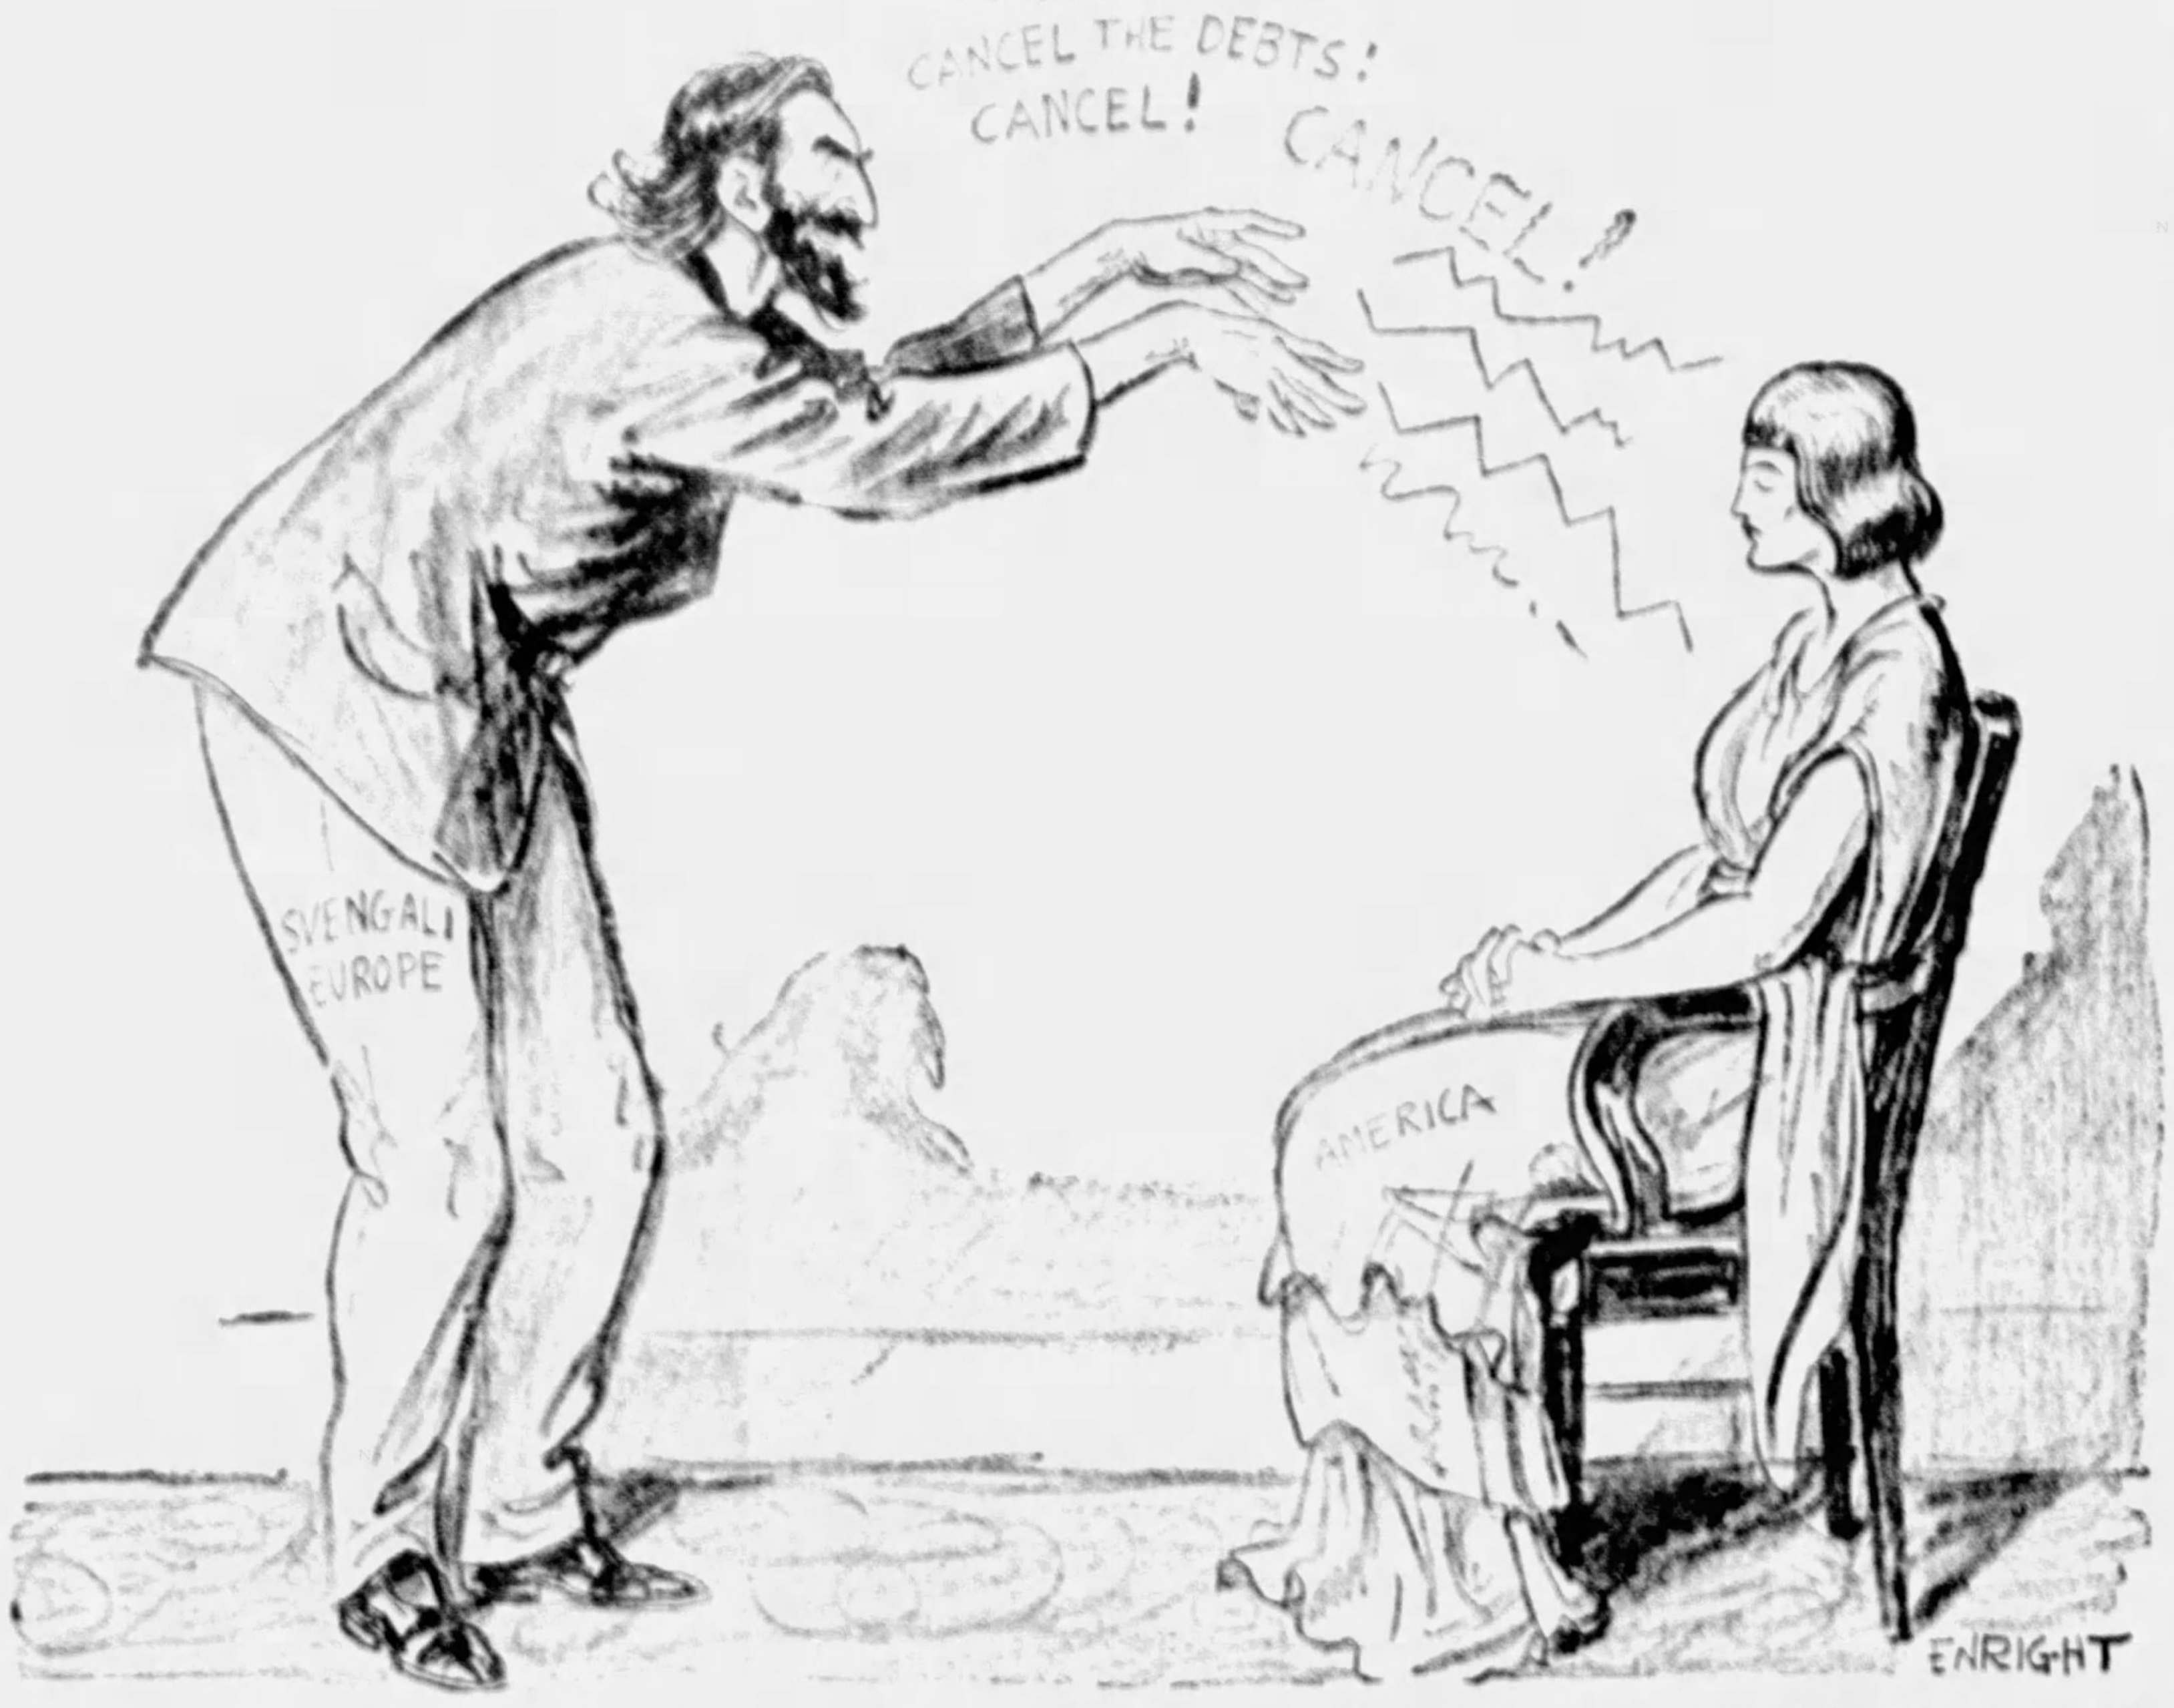
A Pittsburgher, Ralph E. Flinn, is one of the Republican candidates for Auditor General. He seems certain to receive a handsome vote.

Although intense feeling has not been aroused, the Sun Telegraph trusts that the voters are not so apathetic as they may superficially seem to be.

It is the duty of all to go to the polls next Tuesday and to cast their ballots for the candidates who they think will do most to advance the welfare of the State.

Vote independently. Ignore slates. Rebuke selfish gangs and their bosses.

But Columbia Is No Trilby



Europe is not alone in trying the Svengali act on Columbia.

All the internationalists, too, have tried to lull this nation into a deep slumber with their honeyed phrases and their specious pleas.

They work as one.

They have employed every device, every subterfuge at their command to hypnotize the United States into cancellation of the WAR DEBTS Europe JUSTLY owes to the U. S. Treasury.

But the act MUST FAIL.

The American people never will stand for any move that means the transfer of the European war debts to the shoulders of American taxpayers.

And that's just WHAT IT DOES MEAN if the debt cancellationists have their way.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"So Charmed!"

Some girls I've kissed, when I felt blithe and gay,
Have looked so different, when we met next day,
That I have simply paused to say, "SO charmed!"—
And, shuddering, sped hurriedly away!

The foregoing was written in those gracious days, when it was not considered insincere to be polite, and when "SO charmed!" was the proper form of greeting, and only the gauche or the boorish ever used the curt "How d'ye do?"

I was never more delighted than when the gifted Mr. Gilbert Seldes voiced a protest against the current "How do you do?" as the thing to say on being introduced. Never was there a more meaningless, stupid salutation—and never was there a more ungracious one. "How do you do?" hasn't even the virtue of being sincere—because you don't care a hang how a perfect stranger does, what he does or even WHOM he does!

If you are going to be insincere, why not be amiable, polished, courtly and complimentary?

* * *

Who will ever forget the genial "DEE-lighted!" of the late President Theodore Roosevelt—the salutation for which he was famed and which did so much to make him popular. That and his smile went straight through you—and buttoned up the back!

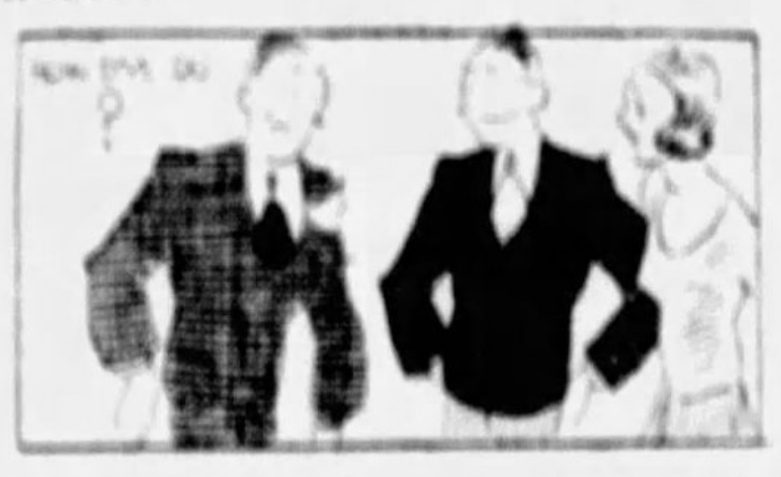
There were lots of other graceful and urbane salutations in those days, all quite proper and modish.



"Delighted, I'm sure!" and "SO nice to know you!" and "This IS a pleasure!"—and of course "SO charmed!" All of them gracious and complimentary and designed to make the new acquaintance feel pleased with himself.

A courteous and flattering salutation, established at once an entente cordiale between you and the stranger and puts you both at your ease. Even the "Much-obliged-to-meet-yer" of Mr. Jiggs has more warmth and meaning and cordiality in it than the Emily-Posted "How d'ye do?"

* * *

About the only flattering greeting we hear, nowadays, is the impertinent "Where-have-you-been-all-my-life?" And that is already in the discard.

* * *

In the scramble of modern life, one beautiful and ornamental custom after another has fallen into disuse, and we are rapidly becoming a nation of boors and hoodlums. We gulp our meals, jostle each other in a crowd, bawl each other out in traffic and leave our bowing and our manners to the waiters.

* * *

But, if we are going to be insincere when we're introduced, why not can the white fib and tell a good, big, flattering whopper—and say "Dee-lighted" or "So charmed!"?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 22.—Thoughts while strolling: A beautiful white Russian wolf-hound always reminds me of Dolores. Gus Edwards and Roxy look alike. They say Mayor Walker has a diary in secret shorthand—like Pepys. De Zemler the Gold Coast barber. Henry L. Doherty stepping along briskly.

Claire Luce, a Rochester, N. Y., girl, who made good in the city. One of New York's radiantly blue white days. My former managing editor—Fred Knowles. Somehow I'd like to see Genevieve Tobin drive a truck. Irving Caesar looks as though he had just bit into an Indian turnip.

Those Jap valets who suck in their breath. Whenever I hear anyone talking French, I ache to take the next boat. A delicatessen with a floriated marble facade. Another favorite person—"Deac" Aylesworth. Whitney Warren's Latin Quarter hat. What became of the poo-poop-a-doop girl, Helen Kane?

Not so many fancy-panted golfers rushing toward Grand Central this summer. Clare (Jay) Gould is waxing plump too. Norman Terris has the glacial aloofness of a novelized English Lady. Skittish ladies who peek before stepping on penny scales. Art Samuels of Harper's Bazaar.

I never read fashion magazines but love their advertisements. One word description of May Christie—fluffy. Something comfortable about hook-on bow tie wearers. New York has an oversupply of racketeering lawyers. Brock Pemberton still biding his time.

Jack Yellen, the music publisher. What an appropriate name! And there's the vaudeville pianist whose real name is Pianidos. Somehow I've always wanted to introduce Harry Wagstaff Gribble to Peg Entwisle. You know, Mr. Gribble, Miss Entwisle. Then there's Angna Enters and Glangas Menter.

Actors of another day straining against oblivion. Those hatless young doctrinaries from Columbia. Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing, has the dreamy look of bibliophile Paul Muni. Once of the Ghetto. And now a star on Broadway. A Zeppelin slides over the Hudson. So life rolls on.

Swank cigarettists now have a special pocket tailored into their coats—a small cache in the inside front, easily reached by the left hand.

When Earl Carroll was forced, temporarily Broadway hopes, out of the theater bearing his name, he slipped off quietly for Europe with the fellow who has been his closest companion during all his vicissitudes—an illusory character known as Count Davis. The Count is a splendidly valeted and happy-go-lucky person. A mixture of Rabelais and Toto. Although owning a Long Island estate his title and income are as mysterious as his grinning self. He has a fine flow of exuberance which seems to please the unsmiling Earl, and he goes nowhere without him.

Among motley barkers and hot dog sellers adding to the seasonal and inchoate din of Coney Island are many faces seen in different surroundings in other days. Humorists are often mute bunched. Someone tells me a well polished bench in the lounge at the Friars the other day included Harry Hershfield, Joe Cunningham, Bugs Baer, Joe Laurie, Jr., and Lou Holz. Not a joke was cracked.

Still on the other hand I saw Leon Gordon, Ben Ali Haggin and Norman Bel Geddes at another table recently and they were not painting pictures either.

A special delivery has just jogged me out of that sublime vacancy so necessary to columning. It is from an astronomer, warning that the earth, now wabbling from two years of anxiety, may crack at any moment. As one who has no particular horror of earthly extinction, I rather hope, however, the catastrophe will be delayed until the day after tomorrow's afternoon. At 2:30 o'clock on that date the suave Fred Keating has promised to show me how to place a coin in my palm and while you are looking, pas-t, it disappears. After that the world can put on its evanishment!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

We're curious creatures—we humans. We all want to be important, want to prove our superiority in some manner. That's natural. Even a turnip wants to get ahead.

But suppose we can't achieve importance through success—then what?

THEN MANY OF US TRY TO ACHIEVE IMPORTANCE THROUGH DEFEAT. AND WE BECOME QUITE AS CONCEITED ABOUT OUR FAILURE AS WE COULD POSSIBLY BECOME ABOUT SUCCESS!

"Defeatism," the psychologists call it. And you've met hundreds of defeatists—some frankly sour, some pathetically appealing; all with a hard luck story.

Here's a sweet girl who has never had a sweetheart.

There's a queer fellow who can never hold a job.

You listen sympathetically to their stories. You agree that they've had some mighty tough breaks. Too bad—fine people like that missing out on life! Wonder if there isn't something you can do to help?

You begin to make suggestions.

You know an awfully nice fellow. Maybe you could arrange a meeting for her.

Or you've heard of a job. You'd be glad to give him a letter.

Eagerly you offer your plans. Now, surely, these sad faces will lighten with hope!

But they do nothing of the sort. To the contrary, their gloom seems to deepen.

You redouble your efforts. You almost yodel in your efforts to be a little ray of sunshine.

Nothing doing! Each argument you advance is met with a gloomy rejection. Yes; it's very nice of you to offer to help, but it wouldn't do any good. There's no use trying. They never have any luck. The cards are stacked against them.

Presently, as your optimism persists, a curious change creeps over them. Their mouths set stubbornly. Their eyes narrow into angry, suspicious points.

Amazingly it dawns upon you that they are getting mad! They don't like your helpful suggestions. They don't seem to want to be helped! They act exactly as if you were trying to harm them—rob them of something!

And you are. You are robbing them of THEIR ONE CLAIM TO SUPERIORITY.

These frightened, muddled, peevish souls have never been able to succeed as healthier souls succeeded; yet in them, as in all living creatures, persists that desire for superiority. In some way they MUST put themselves on record. But they have no success to put on record. AND SO THEY MAKE A RECORD OF FAILURE.

If they can't have more good luck than the other fellow, they can, at least, have more bad luck. If they can't prove that they are Fate's favorites, they can prove that they are the world's worst martyrs — cruelly picked on, double-crossed and two-timed.

And this scheme isn't as dumb as it appears. It has many mightily attractive points. In the first place, it's easy. It takes hard work to be a success, but any flat tire can be a failure. And the flatter you are, the more convincing your argument, and the more sympathy you can command.

Indeed, nobody commands attention as constantly as the perfect failure. His family can't possibly forget him, and he enlists the sympathy of every passing stranger.

Even when that sympathy turns to disgust and rage, it's jake with the defeatist; for he's still in the spot-light, and he's still being picked upon. He's still making a record of defeat.

8—Five-billion-dollar Federal loan for public works and to relieve unemployment.

Decline in Public Works Prolongs the Depression

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

LACK of scientific management of public finances threatens to result this year in a decline of nearly $1,500,000,000 from 1931 in aggregate expenditures on public works in the United States.

Even in 1931, the expenditure on public works was actually less than in 1929.

Thus, the sensible proposal of scientific economists for using public works as a stabilizer has been disregarded.

Contrary to sound principle, public works were carried on at a peak rate during the boom, and are ebbing during the acute depression.

In other words, government, which is supposed to be above the hysteria of the market place, has kept in step with speculators.

It has failed to achieve a national plan for contributing toward economic stability.

THE further retrenchment in public construction this year, it has been estimated, will add a million workers to the millions already idle.

In the long history of human stupidity, has any public policy been more at variance with the larger needs of the country?

Forty-six scientific economists have urged the federal government to float a prosperity loan for accelerating national, state and local public works, and for recalling at least a fraction of the idle to gainful employment.

But instead, governmental agencies have run with the crowd, and are competing with private agencies in hysterical retrenchment.

Local governments are in some instances paying a necessary price for undue extravagance during the prosperous period, when they should have been paying off debt, instead of creating new obligations.

The federal government, in pulling in its horns, is failing to distinguish from operating expenses, which should be curtailed, and capital expenditures, which should be augmented in times of subnormal business activity.

BY postponing essential public works, the federal government is depriving itself of the economy involved in taking advantage of existing low costs.

But even more important, it is failing to contribute its part toward the redemption of part of the unemployed from wasteful idleness.

In light of the present drift, the espousal of the doctrine of retarding public works in time of boom and of expanding them in periods of depression by the President's conference on unemployment in 1921 seems hollow indeed.

The report in 1923 of a committee of experts, appointed by the conference, with a foreword by Herbert Hoover, said:

> "The essential steps in any general program are to plan construction work, private or public, long in advance with reference to the cyclical movement of business, and, in the case of public work, to pass the necessary legislative appropriations, when facts about the trend of business show that it is sound policy to spend money for such purposes."
> In introducing the report, Mr. Hoover said: "No waste is greater than unemployment; no suffering is keener or more fraught with despair than that due to inability by those who wish to work to get jobs."
> The report further said: "Holding back public works and private construction for periods of depression not only gives employment to large numbers of workers when it is most needed, but creates a demand for raw materials for construction which in turn stimulates other industries to offer employment. It maintains the buying power of those directly or indirectly employed, it creates a market for goods, and it enables the workers directly or indirectly employed to buy the products of other industries."

THE Congress and President Hoover as well have ignored the good advice of Secretary Hoover.

By ignoring this good advice, the country has already paid dearly.

Unless Congress pursues this sound procedure for restoring purchasing power and breaking the economic deadlock, it will be tempted by emotional dissatisfaction with continued hard times to experiment with unsound measures.

Why doesn't the committee on labor and education report on the La Follette bill for the acceleration of public works, and give the Senate an opportunity to pass on this vital issue?

ISN'T IT SO?

One touch of scandal makes the whole world chin.

Men who would allow a robber to take their money would lay down their lives for an idea.

The man who goes around looking for trouble is very much surprised if he meets some fellow who thinks he really means it.

History is a narrative of events by a man who does not personally know them, compiled from writings of other persons, probably misinformed.

We are never too old to learn that the good die young.

There is something in every man which resents oppression and loves liberty.

If a woman driving an automobile ever runs into a building she will argue that she had the right of way.

Between a bandit who robs the rich and gives to the poor and a financial magnate who robs all and gives to nobody, which should be hung the first?
